1,500 WORKERS WALK OUT AT WAR FACTORY

Tie Up 6 Departments Making Steel Plates For Warships at Bethlehem Plant.

ARGUE 'WAGE-FREEZE'

Union Says Men Want Double Pay For Seventh Day, Ask Company Define Stand.

(By Associated Press)

JOHNSTOWN Pa.—Six departments of the Bethlehem Steel company plant here which had been producing plates for warships were closed today by a walkout which the CIO United Steelworkers said was caused by a dispute over interpretation of President Roosevelt's wage-freezing order.

Eugene Maurice, local director of the union, said 1,500 men in the slab, plate, 40-inch, 31-inch and blooming mills and the open hearth department were out.

The company announced the mills and department were closed. Other departments of the huge Johnstown works were functioning normally. The strikers are only a fraction of the total number of employes.

The union's grievance committee called a meeting for this morning and a union representative who declined use of his name expressed belief an agreement would be reached.

Maurice said the men walked out because the company "declined to define its attitude on the Oct. 3 directive of President Roosevelt," which prohibited changes in pay unless authorized by the war labor board.

He said men working seven consecutive days demanded double pay for the seventh day and "decided not to work" until the company "defines its attitude" on this. The company claimed the men were receiving the double pay.

R. E Hough, general manager of the steel plate plant, said the walkout, which began late yesterday, violated the union's con-

WANT PLENTY!

Railroad Employes Ask For $3-a-Day Pay Raise.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Representatives of 350,000 railroad operating employes announced today they would ask for a 30 per cent increase in wages, or a minimum raise of $3 a day, from the nation's carriers.

Alvaney Johnson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, serving as spokesman for the five unions which run and man the nation's freight and passenger trains, said increased wages were necessitated by added responsibilities and hazards placed upon employes, excessive hours, the manpower shortage, higher living costs and the inequality of railroad pay compared with that in other industries.

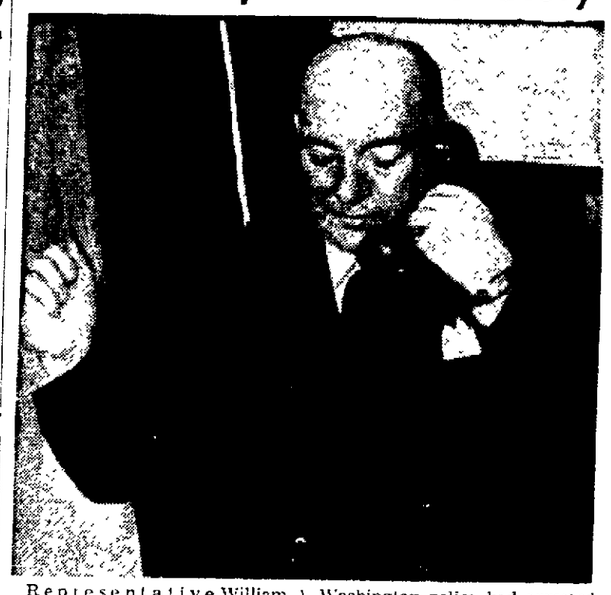
COAL LAND SOLD

Jefferson County Deal Reported To Involve $1,000,000.

STEUBENVILLE — (AP) — In a deal believed to have involved more than $1,000,000, some 4,500 acres of Jefferson county undeveloped coal land was transferred yesterday to the Ohio Power company by the M. J. Hanna company of Cleveland and its subsidiary, the United States Coal company.

The new owners plan to mine the fields to obtain coal for fueling a proposed new power plant near Brilliant, seven miles south of here.

His Fist Opens Murder Story



Representative William Schulte of Indiana displays the fist that delivered a haymaker to the jaw of Rudolph Nies of New York when he insisted on abusing a negro attendant in the barber shop which serves the house of representatives. After Washington police had arrested Nies, he stunned them with the assertion that he had killed his wife and two daughters. Investigation proved that his wife had been fiendishly stabbed to death in the bathroom of the Nies home at Islip Terrace, N. Y.

Congressman's 'Haymaker' Snares Man Wanted In Murder

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A New York state trooper and an investigator today were enroute to Washington to pickup Rudolph Nies, 36-year-old aviation machinist who was seized in connection with the stabslaying of his wife, after he was knocked out by Rep. William Schulte (D.), Ind., for causing trouble in the house barbershop.

State Trooper John Manopoli, and A. Russell Tichards investigator for the Suffolk county, N. Y., district attorney's office, left last night for Washington where Nies was being held under guard in Gallinger hospital.

Rep. Schulte delivered a "haymaker" to Nies when the latter became abusive to an attendant in the Capitol Hill barbershop. Capitol police sent Nies to Gallinger hospital for observation and shortly afterward it was learned that he was being sought in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Emma Nies, 33, whose body was found in the bathroom of their home at Islip Terrace.

New York police said there were 30 to 40 knife wounds in Mrs. Nies' body. The crime was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Bertha Senft, and an autopsy indicated that Mrs Nies had been murdered Sunday

Nies was employed as a machinist at the Fairchild Aviation corporation in Jamaica, N. Y., where it was stated he had not

Announcement that the Salvation Army would assume the responsibility of serving in this capacity was made today by Jane Williams, executive secretary of the Mansfield Community Fund, after conferring with Paul Hoffman, Salvation Army adjutant.

In years past the Community Fund office has acted as clearing house for the Give-a-Christmas program and was assisted last year in sponsoring the project by the Junior Association of Commerce and The Mansfield News-Journal. Dr. Wilford M. Gill, common pleas court psychiatrist, reported the four inmates received injuries recently and quoted them as saying six guards had beaten them with "billy clubs and blackjacks" Dr. Gill's report was made to Judge Frank S. Day, who ordered Sweeney to open a probe.

FBI WANTS TO KEEP BATES, HITS 'POLITICS'

Cleveland Bureau Frowns on Civil Service Mandate That Ex-Chief Must Return.

UP TO LOCAL BOARD

State Attorney Says Board Here Can Extend Leave For War's Duration.

"Most certainly we want him to remain in federal service." Lee Boardman, Cleveland area special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said today when asked if the FBI would oppose the Mansfield Civil Service commission's mandate to Meade K. Bates that he resume his duties as police chief here Jan. 15 or forfeit seniority rights accruing from 19 years of police service.

"The FBI," Boardman continued, "recognizes Bates as a highly valuable member of the bureau and since the FBI virtually is an integral part of the armed forces of the nation at war, feels that local politics should not interfere with his continuation in active service."

Coincidentally, Attorney Breen of the state civil service commission, today admitted in a telephone conversation with a News-Journal reporter that the local commission is not bound in its general conformity to the state board's regulations and can, at its own option, extend the Bates leave beyond a year in compliance with council's ordinance granting the leave for the duration of the national emergency.

Breen explained that customarily a person returns to his job after a year's leave for a "reasonable period" and renews his leave application. He said the state board ruling is that a year's leave is the limit except for service in the armed forces and that he does not consider the FBI in that category.

On Dec. 1, the city Civil Service commission formulated a notice to Bates that his leave could not be continued past Jan. 14. Bates, in the city yesterday, said he would ask the commission to further clarify the situation, indicating that to date his understanding has been that his only choice will be to come back in.

Boardman, declining to discuss the possible political aspects of the case, made the inference that Washington authorities had been asked to intercede with the view of retaining Bates in FBI service.

U. S. TO COLLECT BILLION IN AREA

22 Counties of Northeastern Ohio to Swell Income Tax Payments.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Uncle Sam's war chest will receive ample provender next year when $1 000,000,000 will be collected from 22 counties in northeastern Ohio in income taxes.

Revenue Collector Frank F. Gentsch estimates that twice as many people will file tax returns next year and the returns should reach the billion dollar figure. He said that average payment probably will be three times as much as this year.

Last year 900,000 persons in the district filed returns while an estimated 1,800,000 were expected in 1943.

Parking Receipts Slump as Owners Garage Cars.

Getting into training last month for the gas rationing era, Mansfield motorists restricted their shopping trips by auto considerably, the November parking meter returns show.

According to the report to City Auditor Paul L. Kelley by Lloyd Kochenderfer, meter inspector, and the Richland Trust company, auditing agent, last month's receipts slumped to $3,067.07, as compared to $3,253.63 in October, $3,326.35 in September and $3,556 in August.

November collections included $1,579.72 in pennies, $1,475 65 in nickels and $11.70 in dimes.

Total for the year ending Nov. 20 is $42,265.67.

Bond Clean-Up Shows More Pledges, 100 Per Cent Firms

Two revisions—both upward—were made today in recapitulating the figures of Mansfield's tremendous response Monday to the "Remember Pearl Harbor—Buy Bonds" campaign.

A final check revealed that the total number of persons who either bought bonds Monday or signified that they were participating in a payroll deduction bond purchase plan would be in excess of 9,000, rather than 7,000.

A clean-up by a special J.A.C. committee of bond-selling agencies and industries brought in 2,000 more pledges yesterday afternoon. Again, a crew of 14 Senior high school girls typed the additional names alphabetically for use in the Dec. 13 edition of The News-Journal, which goes to all Mansfield men in the armed services.

The other change was in the number of firms going 100 per cent for the payroll deduction plan. Three more were added, bringing the total from 102 to 105.

However, the total amount of purchases stood the same—at $457,050 in outright purchases, plus an estimated $41,000 from payroll deductions for the month from new participants in the plan. This, with an estimated $130,000 in bond allocations in December from plants and business houses previously signed up, puts the county well over its $587,000 quota for the month of December.

To enable The News-Journal to obtain the latest correct address of Mansfield men in the services, for mailing the Dec. 13 edition, a coupon for use by parents and relatives appears on Page 5 of today's paper, together with instructions for using it.

STATE REFUSES SPECIAL EXAM

AP Says Request From Mayor Which He 'Knows Nothing About,' Denied.

Although Mayor W. J. Locke said he didn't know anything about it, there'll be no special examination of any city department's books by the state auditor's office.

Yesterday, Locke said he didn't know anything about a state examiner being here Monday although Frank B. Thomas, chief of the cities' division of the inspection bureau, told the Associated Press in Columbus that Locke last week telephoned a request for a conference, indicating "there may be something wrong in some city departments."

Today Thomas informed The News-Journal through the Associated Press that he had told Examiner C. F. Risser to advise Mayor Locke that no special examination would be made in advance of the regular examination some time after Jan. 31. Risser was in the City Hall Monday afternoon, Locke didn't know about this today, either he said.

Meanwhile conjecture continues that the mayor's request was an effort to forestall purchase of

Allied Planes Challenge Axis Over Tunisia

Morocco Reports Growing Airpower As Bombs Rain on Tunis, Bizerte, Aid Ground Fighting; Italian City Heavily Damaged.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Allied infantry and motorized units have launched two counter-attacks in the Tebourba area and succeeded in making slight headway, a Reuters news agency dispatch said today, quoting a New York radio broadcast.

(By Associated Press)

Britain's huge four-motored bombers delivered another tempest of fire and high explosives on the Italian royal arsenal city of Turin before dawn today, while across the Mediterranean the rising might of Allied air squadrons challenged the Axis for control of the skies over North Africa.

A broadcast from American-occupied Morocco said Allied heavy artillery—previously pictured as mounted on strategic heights—was pounding Axis forces in the Tebourba sector in Tunisia and Allied planes again raided Tunis and Bizerte.

Every day, the broadcast said, "fresh (Allied) formations of aircraft are put into operation."

Italy's high command acknowledged that the RAF "carried out a violent raid last night over Turin, causing very heavy damage especially in the central area." Its communique indicated that casualties had been severe.

Authoritative London quarters said the RAF's far-ranging Stirlings, Halifaxes, Lancasters and Wellingtons, flying 1,500 miles round trip across the Alps, blasted Turin in "a concentrated attack" and declared:

"The results are believed to be good."

It was the fifth time in less than a month that Turin has felt the impact of "prolonged, scientific and shattering attack" promised by Prime Minister Churchill in a campaign to knock Italy out of the war.

Civilian populations at Turin, Genoa, Naples and other Italian cities have already started a hasty exodus to the countryside under orders by Premier Mussolini.

Advices reaching London from Tunisia said the hour for a new Allied drive on the Axis-held strongholds of Bizerte and Tunis might be near, following a strong and successful counter-attack executed Monday by British and American troops in the Tebourba sector, 20 miles west of Tunis.

American tanks were officially credited with supplying the punch which drove the Germans from their newly-won positions south of Tebourba, and an Allied headquarters spokesman also praised the "extraordinarily fine support from

DESPERATE: Nazis Using Mail Planes to Bolster East Front

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Germany's armies, trying desperately to hold the siege of Stalingrad they laid down 106 days ago, are pressing mail planes and training ships into service in an attempt to bolster their threatened forces with reinforcements, the Soviet army newspaper Red Star asserted today.

The Red air force has downed as many as 60 Junkers 52's in three days, Red Star said. These are the regular German troop and supply carrying ships which the invader has been using to bring reserves from as far as Germany itself, Red Star claimed.

Planes, tanks and motorized infantry were fed toward the positions in which German counter-attacks in the last five days have been successful in slowing the Soviet drives.

While the Red army's advance generally has slowed on individual sectors, particularly southwest of Stalingrad, Soviet authorities asserted their gains continued.

Red Star, the army's newspaper, said that shock troops stormed German front line trenches in one sector southwest of Stalingrad, killing several hundred of the enemy.

The afternoon communique, which listed more than 1,300 of the enemy killed in the night's fighting, told how Russian artillery pounded back an attempt by German mechanized infantry to flank some of their units in the sector southwest of Stalingrad.

The Russian offensive thus was geared to slow, grinding progress against mounting resistance.

Russian dispatches pictured it as a war of doggedly keeping at the attempt of turning back Ger-

CHECKED: Japs Lose Destroyer In New Attempt to Reach Buna

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The navy announced today that American dive bombers and torpedo planes attacked a Japanese force of ten cruisers and destroyers off Guadalcanal, sinking one enemy warship and leaving three others in flames.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—Allied bombers broke up a new attempt by the Japanese navy to reinforce troops in the Buna-Gona area of New Guinea yesterday, setting one of the six relief destroyers afire with two direct hits and forcing the remaining five to flee northward, an Allied communique said today.

On the New Guinea shore, Allied forces which drove a new hole in the Japanese lines a few days ago and reached the beach fought off strong counter-attacks from Buna village and Buna mission. At least 40 Japanese were reported killed in the fighting.

Allied troops advanced slightly in the fighting around the Buna air drome and the communique reported that Allied planes were continuing their attacks on Japanese positions.

The communique from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said that Japanese planes "have violated the laws of war by repeated attacks upon Allied hospital installations, killing doctors, medical personnel and patients."

On Nov. 27, the communique said, Japanese planes bombed an Australian field ambulance in the Soputa area and an American regimental dressing station, killing 29 persons and wounding 31. On Dec. 2 an American field hos-

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Our town's old-line bad men will never have a better chance to reform.

Villainy, like nepotism, is purely relative. Once your standard, grade-A film villain was an American gangster who toted a gat, kicked little dogs, and intermittently fondled a moll. Today he's a gangster and his nationality doesn't matter so long as it's Jap or Nazi. It usually is.

Coons

This transition is so marked that a whole movie has been built on the premise that an American racketeer, compared to a Nazi heel, is a tin angel. In "Lucky Jordan" Alan Ladd is a slick, draft-dodging, gat-toting, unconvicted criminal, but when he tangles with Nazi philosophy he can't stomach it. So Ladd reforms.

PRESUMABLY by the same process, some of our long-established meanies are finding the pathways to virtue while a new crop of Japanazi heavies takes over the roads to perdition.

So we have Brian Donlevy, who hit pictures as a bad man and clinched his status as the snarling brute of "Beau Geste," now appearing in true colors as a hero of "Wake Island" and "Cargo of Innocents," matching his virtuous wits with the black wiles of Nipponese brutes.

While new villains with foreign names—most of them refugees from the very Nazi tyranny they now typify—hold the screen, such previously unregenerate worthies as Humphrey Bogart are embracing high standards of conduct along with the heroine. Once a challenge to any industrious missionary, Bogart in "Casablanca" walks the straight and narrow for Ingrid Bergman. As Michael Curtiz the metaphor-mixer, exclaimed delightedly of the result: "With Miss Bergman's help, I have made a silk purse from a black sheep!"

GEORGE SANDERS, infuriatingly suave Nazi in many movies, and a villain of some stripe in most, continues charmingly wicked but even he is taking sporadic journeys into cinematic goodness. George Raft, long a heart-of-gold bad man, shows signs of being a ditto hero.

And the opportunity is provided by gentleman named Helmut Dantine or Kurt Katch or Conrad Veidt or Martin Kosleck or Alexander Granach, all of whom are finding this a golden hour for projecting a type of Nazi villainy beside which the old American brand has the punch of a chocolate ice cream soda.

It is also provided, on the other side of the global war, by gentlemen named Philip Ahn, Richard Loo, Chester Gan and Sen Yung, who are among the Chinese or Koreans who double as Japs for movie purposes.

YEAR OF WAR COSTS AMERICA 46 BILLIONS

Sum's Bigger Than World War I Expenditure, But Next Year It'll Be 78 Billions.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — One year of war has cost the United States over $46,000,000,000 — more than entire cost of participation in the last world conflict 25 years ago.

Staggering as this sum appears, it is dwarfed by latests budget estimates of war expenditures for the 1943 fiscal year, which budget officials expect to amount to $78,000,000,000.

Since last Dec. 8, when congress declared a state of war with Japan, the treasury has reported $46,393,890,525 spent on war activities alone up to Dec. 5. Officials say this is conservative.

The net cost of American participation in the first World war, treasury statistics show, was $40,383,062,000.

The nation entered the second year of its war against the Axis with the greatest public debt in its history and war costs mounting to unprecedented heights. The latest treasury statements show that current war expenditures are running at the rate of about $6,000,000,000 a month, which is just about four times what they were under the national defense program before Pearl Harbor.

The public debt, too, is nearly twice what it was a year ago. At that time—on Dec. 8, 1941—it was $55,154,812. It has since mounted to more than $100,000,000,000, the latest treasury figure on Dec. 5 placing the gross debt at $103,577,860,314.

When the United States entered the World war in 1917, it had a gross debt of $1,500,000,000. During the first year of participation in that war, the public debt rose to $11,350,376,680 and on Nov. 30, 1918, it stood at $19,438,373,022.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and his aides are busy studying new tax proposals which it was indicated will impose heavier burdens than ever have been placed on the American taxpayer.

PRICE QUIZZED ON CENSORSHIP

Senators Ask About Opening of Alaskan Mail.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The senate judiciary committee called Byron Price, director of censorship, before it today to explain the reported opening of letters passing between Alaska and the United States.

The hearing was to be private, as was that last week of Gov. Ernest H. Gruening of Alaska, who brought the issue to the committee's attention.

Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) said the committee had been told of a staff of 400 censors at Seattle who read every letter that passed between the United States proper and Alaska. He questioned the legality of the procedure.

FACING TRIAL FOR ABDUCTION

Waitress Admits Taking Baby and Telling Man Child Was Theirs.

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND — (INS) — FBI agents today arrested Herbert Chapman, Akron, on a charge of kidnaping in connection with the abduction of 10-months-old Daniel Joseph Scanlon from his crib in St. Ann's hospital, Columbus, last Oct. 12.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Mrs. Ruby Cremeans, 23, who pleaded guilty before a U. S. commissioner at Cincinnati to charges of kidnaping 10-months-old Daniel Joseph Scanlon from his crib at St. Ann's hospital Oct. 12, probably will be brought to Columbus for trial, federal officials intimated today.

The young waitress admitted to U. S. Commissioner J. Paul Geoghegan, who ordered her held in default of $10,000 bond following her preliminary arraignment, that she had tried to foist the child on another man as "our child." She reiterated her previous claim that she had abducted the baby because she "fell in love with him."

The man who was led to believe the kidnaped infant was his and who is held at Huntington, W. Va., on similar charges of kidnaping is Carl Chapman, who, Mrs. Cremeans said, helped her take young Danny away.

He and three other close friends or relatives of Mrs. Cremeans who are being held in conjunction with the abduction may be arraigned before a commissioner at Huntington.

Danny was located in Portsmouth Saturday, and is now recovering from the effects of a cold.

EARLY HOLIDAY SHOPPING FAILS TO STEM DECLINE IN SALES TAX

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Early Christmas shopping by thousands of Ohioans, spending fat war-time pay checks to play Santa Claus, failed to halt the downward slump in sales tax receipts, during the week ending Nov. 28 as compared with the same period last year, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today.

Receipts during that week totaled $1,148,494 as compared with $1,347,325 in 1941, records revealed.

The automotive classification continued to show the greatest decline, dropping from $189,110 to $51,167. The building group followed closely for cellar honors with a decrease from $132,715 to $52,942.

Of the eight classifications, only three held gains. Food led the upward trend with an increase of nearly 10 per cent from $121,632 to $134,390.

Receipts in the apparel group showed a noticeable increase, apparently reflecting anticipation of clothing rationing after the first of the year. Returns jumped from $97,887 to $117,117.

The only other group to stay in the upward race was general which gained from $200,540 to $220,227.

Dockery has decided to give up politics, he said. In a letter to The News-Journal, he said he was glad that the "miserable game of politics is behind me forever." Col. Dockery saw service in five wars, Spanish American war, Philippine insurrection, Boxer rebellion in China, the expedition to capture Vera Cruz in Mexico, and the first World war. He has been in foreign service in Alaska, China, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Panama, and the Philippines.

Webber, Elyria, who was snared in a state patrol-city police speed dragnet laid during the recent traffic rush caused by the Ohio State-Michigan game. Webber's check for $16.30 arrived today at municipal court together with a guilty plea entry. Webber, in a lengthy letter to the court, had resented his arrest by highway patrolmen, and had further declared that when a man is motivated by a desire to hurry home to a sick wife after attending a football game he should be permitted to exceed the speeds others are restricted to.

SEEKING FULL CO-OPERATION OF EMPLOYERS

President Says Men Released To War Work Should Be Assured of Old Jobs.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The employer who surrenders his workers to munitions industries with assurance they will get their old jobs back with unimpaired seniority rights at war's end had the blessing today of President Roosevelt.

The president, who only four days ago authorized creation of a civilian job priority system which, if used, could force many workers into war jobs, told a press conference yesterday he felt employers on non-war industries would be willing to give such assurance as a service to the government.

Noting that the draft law accords returning service men job protection and retention of seniority rights, Mr. Roosevelt read a statement observing that the same protection should be given the civilian "who leaves his job to accept employment to help with the war effort."

The statement declared all are conscious of "a great need for additional manpower to make munitions," and that a war job is a "direct contribution" to victory.

"One way we can encourage skilled workers in civilian industry to shift to employment in war plants," he added, "is to see to it that when victory has been won, employes can return to their peacetime work without loss of all the seniority rights which they have accumulated over the years."

The president termed reports that the government had 2,500,000 employes in soft desk jobs is misinformation, falsehood and whitelies.

While government employes number 2,500,000, he said, 1,500,000 are working at war production jobs and 317,000 are in the postal service. Only 12 per cent of all federal workers are employed in Washington, he added.

Plans to Double Output of Engines For 'Fortresses'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (AP) — Studebaker Corporation currently producing Wright Cyclone Motors on a mass production basis, plans to double its output of the flying fortress power plants by next summer.

H. S. Vance, chairman of the board of the corporation, disclosed these plans today after showing a group of news writers through his company's aircraft engine factory.

The monthly output of the engines was not made known but it may be said that hundreds of units are rolling out of the factory each week.

"Before long," Vance said, "we will be producing at the rate of approximately a million dollars a day."

Contributing greatly to the high speed activity that is keeping the quarter-mile long assembly lines filled with the precision engines is a battery of giant machines that perform scores of operations simultaneously on 130 cylinder heads, reducing the minutes processes that formerly required hours to complete.

Similarly production short-cuts have been developed on cylinder barrels and crankcases.

Begrudging Husband Says He Loved Her

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A correspondent asks what's the matter with her husband. He has ideas far beyond the average man, is scrupulously honest and has a good income, yet, he begrudges her a penny to spend on her clothes or one dime to keep in her pocket-book.

He makes many sweet speeches about keeping his wife innocent and has high hopes for lovely children, when they can afford them. Apparently he fails to realize that jealousy, in its worst form, motivates his conduct. How a woman whose heart is full of bitterness and resentment over her husband's treatment can be the mother of children who will love and respect their father is a riddle to which this husband has given scant attention. Here's part of the letter:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"My husband is young and true to me and his ideals are definitely above the average. He claims to love me dearly but has a queer way of showing it.

"He enjoys buying things for our car and our home, but when I need clothes of any description, that's a different matter. I lived in the same three dresses for the past three years. He makes good money, yet I never have two dimes to jingle together in my pocket-book.

"When I shop he goes to the grocery store with me and there's an argument if I select anything which costs a penny more than he thinks it should.

"He has never been given any reason to doubt my fidelity but when he talks about the lovely children we'll have some day — I wonder.

"MRS. SCRIMPED."

As those lovely children, who are going to dote and respect their parsimonious father who takes this mean way of showing his jealousy, have not yet arrived, why not get a job?

It seems to me that when a man's miserliness and jealousy go hand-in-hand to the extent you've stated in your letter — and I haven't given all of it—that the only self-respecting thing a woman can do is to earn her own money.

Patients, Tact Will Help Child Who Stutters

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

The following letter was received from an intelligent teacher in the lower grades, and I am giving it here because it is a subject of great interest to many people.

"Dear Dr. Myers:—As you will recall, you visited my classroom and asked me to send you the poem about the flag written by a little boy in my room. He was the boy who stuttered so badly and caused his parents so much anxiety because of this handicap. . . .

Our Flag

"The colors of our Country's Flag
Are red, white and blue
To love and respect them
We must be citizens true.
Whenever you see the flag pass by
Always raise your hat up high."

Not an Easy Case.

The teacher continues: "The case was not an easy one for me to handle. I had to be very tactful because, as my principal told me, the mother was sort of a problem and Dick was watched over closely by her. I felt part of his speech difficulty was upset nerves. His mother was high-strung, and yet I think I was successful in dealing with her.

"This year Dick has written wonderful poems in the third grade. Different people have been amazed at the poems he wrote all the year. He reads well now. I read along with him last year because he had lost confidence in himself and stuttered badly. After I would start him off he could read right along.

"I taught his classmates to be kind, sympathetic and patient with him. Not once did they laugh during the year but they all helped him, and their class spirit was wonderful. I realized it was keeping his nerves calm in school, and helping him gain confidence that aided him in conquering his affliction.

Built Self-Confidence.

"I had no control in his home, or over the children from other classrooms who laughed at him on the school grounds. He often came to me upset, but I told him he could do better work than they could and, too, he could write nicer stories and poems; that if he could not get out some words he could do some things that children in higher grades could not do.

"When you addressed the teachers of our city you answered questions. Dick's mother asked about his stuttering. You spoke so helpfully about it and said you had talked to a teacher in our system who was taking care of a stuttering case wisely. She knew what you meant. That encouraged me more than I can tell you, for I had worried so much about Dick. It has given me a lot of pleasure to see Dick gradually overcome his stuttering."

How fortunate it would be if every child who stutters at school had a teacher like the one who wrote this letter. Since the time I visited in that classroom, I have written a special bulletin on the child who stutters, to be had without cost by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. Please show me how to get my 4½-year-old daughter to tone down a bit. She just runs and runs and runs around the house all the time, never walks. She seems very nervous. I am enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

A. I sent her my two bulletins, "Nervous Habits in the Child," and "The Nervous, Jittery Mother" to be had by any other reader in the same way.

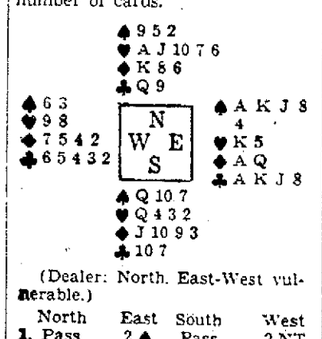
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ASK FOR DISTRIBUTION

When you open with a standard game-forcing bid of two in a suit, you not only proclaim to the world the strength of your own holding, but you notify your partner that you don't expect to find much high card strength with him, if any. What you do want to know from him—unless it is a rare case where he can show you some high values for slam purposes—is his distribution. Usually you are ready to play for game, if you have two suits, in whichever finds him with the larger number of cards.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1. Pass	2 ♠	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 NT
2. Pass	2 ♠	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	4 ♣
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	5 ♣

West seems to have a very poor hand, but actually he has a good one, considering his partner's holding. But look how it was mistreated by the holder at the table where the first sequence of bidding occurred. That bid of 3-No Trumps after the clubs were shown was very bad. His hand is a good one if played at clubs and a poor one at No Trumps. By his bidding, East might have had two six-card suits, possibly with a singleton diamond A, in which case the defenders might run the whole heart suit.

Responses to a two-bid of this type should be based on the same theory as those to an informatory double— length showing. That principle was used properly at the second table.

Where West tried to make 3-No Trumps, he could score only eight tricks after North's heart lead. Where East played for 5-Clubs, he made six against a heart lead, the A of that suit taking the only trick against him. With any other lead than a heart, seven could be made. Trumps would drop in two rounds. Then two high spades and a ruff would set up the last two for heart discards from dummy, whereupon East's hearts could be ruffed out. To crown the hand, the diamond finesse would work.

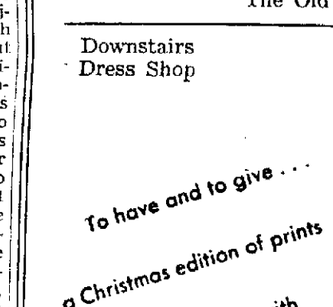
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

What is perfect play of this deal for 6-Clubs after the heart J is led, and what perfect defense will beat it?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, December 10.

Affairs move under high pressure and under fine impetus for initiative in putting over major propositions, with skill, ingenuity and determination, with the prospect of attaining the desired goals. But there may be small obstacles or delays, and this may be complicated by a tendency to unjustified outlay of funds or energies, with extravagances and indulgences of a personal character.

This might cause loss of standing or credit, even to the point of unhappy litigation. Seek wise counsel of superiors and exercise sound judgment and principle.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is should feel the urge and incentive to attack new propositions or projects of major importance, with vim, courage and initiative. But their high hopes may be complicated by an unexpected development, a delay of impediment, as well as by a personal proclivity to extravagance, rash use of funds or capital, together with other economic or indulgent mistakes to cause loss of standing or credit and possible litigation. While friends or superiors may be helpful, it would be wise to conserve personal resources and put doubtful plots and treacheries aside, lest prestige and popularity be sacrificed. Social and affectional affiliations are well favored.

A child born on this day should have much energy and ingenuity, and has prospect of success and happiness, but it may be carried away by excess enthusiasm, optimism, self-will and the tendency to reckless use of its funds and energies, subjecting it to dangers from the law.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I knew better than to make any comment when my father finished outlining his plan to keep Milner in ignorance of Georges' presence in the hotel, but Mary broke into excited speech.

"What a perfectly marvelous stunt!" she exclaimed. "How do you think them up, Grandpa Spencer? I feel as if I were living in a movie."

"I am glad you approve," he said, a bit dryly, but gave her one of his rare smiles, as she and I rose to go.

"Those are all the instructions I have to give you," he said. "Tell Olga, if there is anything she does not understand, to come over here to see me. Georges and I will remain here all day.

"As soon as you return from the Veritzen suite," he told me, "I shall ask you to go out, guarded of course, to make a telephone call for me and certain purchases.

"And now, please let your aunt know soon, Mary, if you and Noel are going to be at the function tonight."

Mary Thrilled.

"I'm sure I can do that inside of five minutes," Mary said, the caroling note in her voice showing how deeply she was thrilled. Then we left and soon were walking down the corridor.

"I'll come over in an hour and report progress," Mary said as we reached the elecator.

"Please do that," I said, and she went on to her own suite on the same floor, while I waited for the elevator to take me to the palatial top floor apartment always reserved for the owner of the Lansfield and his family, whenever he chooses to be at the hotel.

Guard Watching.

As I left the elevator a powerfully built man sitting unobtrusively near the entrance to the Veritzen apartment scanned me attentively, and I was conscious of his intent gaze as I knocked at the hall door, which was opened to the length of its guard chain by Olga's personal maid.

"Good afternoon, Marie!" I said, and a furtive glance showed me that the guard, for such I knew the man to be, had turned his eyes away as if he had no further interest in me.

When I had entered, Marie put up the chain again as I said:

"Will you please tell Madame Veritzen that I am here?" But before she could answer me, Olina came through the doorway from the living room.

"Good afternoon, Auntie Madge!" she said, smiling a cordial welcome. "Will I do until Mama comes back? She and Papa Veritzen have gone out for a walk."

In a Sound Proof Room.

"Of course you'll do," I told her, racking my brain to decide how much to tell her of Georges, before her mother and father should arrive.

"Then come in here," she said, and let the way into the library, a small, cozy room which Philip Veritzen once told me had effective sound proof doors. "A wonderful place to concentrate on work," he had said, but I realized also that no possible eavesdropper outside could hear any word from inside it.

My guess that Olina had a purpose in showing me into this room was confirmed when she seated me in a comfortable armchair, sat down on a footstool at my side and lifted her lovely, expressive face to mine.

"I'm selfishly glad they're not here," she said, "for now I'll have time to tell you that old story which was interrupted the other day."

by REX HESS

Mansfield high school cage fans are advised to get out their schedules, draw a line through the date which says: "Feb. 6—Mt. Vernon—tentative—there," and insert: "Jan. 26—Mt. Vernon—there—for sure."

Tyger Tutor Vern Hoffman reports the Feb. 6 date crowded the Mt. Vernon home schedule as the Jackets have a home game booked for Feb. 5, but the change leaves the Tygers with an open date for that week-end.

Hoffman hopes to open basketball relations with Fremont, and is now negotiating with the Little Giants for a game at Fremont on Feb. 5 on a two-year contract.

For several years Mansfield has tried to get Fremont on its regular schedule since the two schools have built up a real rivalry in tournament play, but up to now Fremont has turned down the bid on the grounds that it meant too long trips.

Now both Mansfield and Fremont are scouting around for games to fill the vacancy caused by Sandusky's decision to quit basketball for the duration, and they may get together.

But how do the Giants rate now in your book,
Since they don't have the Jenkins known as Snooks?

Gomes sad news for Mansfield cage fans from my Toledo operative, Pee Wee Lantz, who reports that ex-Tyger star Gene Miller isn't playing with Toledo U. this winter. Lantz writes:

I have enclosed in this letter some very disappointing news for the Mansfielders who have been following the Toledo Rockets in hope of hearing news of Gene Miller's basketball career.

Gene has been working very hard at Toledo and has earned nearly every cent of his schooling. It was just too much for him to carry so he decided to drop basketball.

Gene and I have been very close to each other in high school as well as in college. But we are going to part come January. He is enlisted in the Army Reserves and is expecting to leave at the end of the semester. I am in the Naval Air Corps and expect to leave the first of January.

Gene has not been able to adapt himself to the brand of basketball Burl Friddle teaches, but after the game the other night I believe T. U. is in for the best season of its glorious basketball career even without Miller.

Yours truly,
Pee Wee Lantz.

Yes, Pee Wee, the Rockets had plenty of pyrotechnics left without Miller. Score: Toledo 97, Defiance 29.

Here's the clipping from a Toledo paper which Pee Wee sends along:

Because of a heavy academic schedule and work outside of school, Gene Miller, one of the four returning men on the university basketball team, dropped from the squad this week.

Miller, who comes from Medford, Ore., is a junior, and as a sophomore last year saw action in every Rocket game. Bill McClain, and Jack Berry, other returning veterans, and Miller were rated as the outstanding reserves on the 1941-42 team.

The loss of Miller now leaves Burl Friddle's team with three returning men from last year's squad Miller is enlisted in the Army Reserve and is president of the MacKinnon club.

Service Clubs Ask Grid Dates

Great Lakes, Seahawks Want on Big Ten Skeds.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The mid-west's two top service teams, Great Lakes and the Iowa Pre-Flight school, today requested the Big Ten to alter its 1943 schedules to provide them with representative playing programs.

The requests were made by Lt. Cmdr. Russell Cook, athletic director at Great Lakes, and Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman of the Pre-Flight school, before a joint meeting of conference athletic directors, faculty representatives and football coaches.

While there was no immediate action taken on the requests, they probably will be granted although revision of football schedules may be postponed until a March meeting. The 1942 conference schedules were scrapped to provide competition for four service teams, but it is unlikely that either Camp Grant or Fort Knox will want places on next season's cards as their teams were badly outclassed.

Great Lakes played six conference schools and the Iowa Pre-Flight team five in the 1942 schedule.

"We hope to continue our relations with the Big Ten on the same basis as we did this past fall," Cook said. "It is the only way our athletic program can have life in it. Our hope is for the same type of schedule we had this season although that doesn't mean we'll meet the same teams again."

Cook did not feel that Great Lakes could make any concessions on the players used on the team, such as playing only collegians and prohibiting competition by players with professional experience.

"We played only enlisted men on our teams," he said, "there were no officers on the squad. We'll stick to that standard but any enlisted man at the station is eligible to compete. We could not discriminate against any of them."

Bierman, whose Seahawks were the target for considerable criticism because of the heavy use of officer material, said:

"It is our intention to carry on football at the pre-flight schools as long as it does not interfere with our program. I cannot say anything about what the make-up of the 1943 football team would be as it relates to officers and cadets."

Conference faculty representatives, the legislative group of the Big Ten, may act today on the controversial freshman rule. In some quarters it was believed a decision on permitting first year men to play on varsity teams would be delayed to see how deeply the military service calls on 18 and 19 year old boys cut into college enrollments.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Honus Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates polled 104 out of a possible 105 votes to lead the selection of an all-time, all-star baseball team by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The team, with the votes:

First Base—Lou Gehrig, New York Yankees, 67.

Second Base—Eddie Collins, Chicago White Sox, 36.

Third Base—Harold (Pie) Traynor, Pittsburgh, 62.

Shortstop—Wagner, 104.

Right Field—Babe Ruth, New York Yankees, 103.

Center Field — Tris Speaker, Cleveland, 75.

Left Field—Ty Cobb, Detroit, 102.

Catcher—Bill Dickey, New York Yankees, 51.

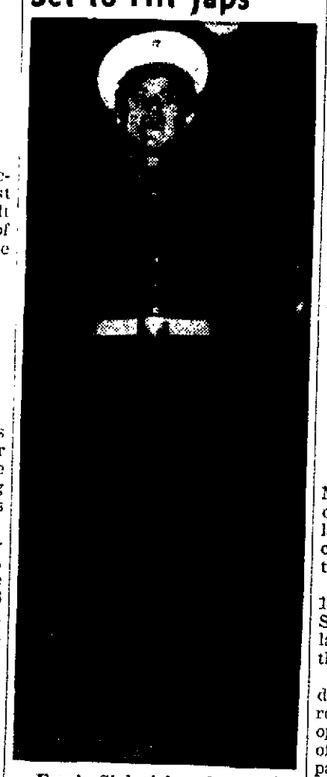
THREE OHIOANS GET ON ALL-STAR TEAM

ATLANTA —(AP)— Three Ohio boys won places on the Southeastern Conference All-Star football team selected by the loop's coaches for the Associated Press.

Two of them—Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia's All-American passing and running ace, and his pass-catching pal and partner, end George Poschner are from Youngstown, O. The third Buckeye athlete honored is Albert Hust, 200-pound Tennessee tackle from Cleveland.

Set to Hit Japs



Frank Sinkwich, who sparkplugged Georgia University's grid team to national fame, sports his marine uniform in New York City where he was awarded the Heisman Memorial trophy, given each year to the most outstanding college football player.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK—Did you ever see anything fall flat faster (or flatter) than the late football season? . . . One week 95,100 customers turned out for the U. S. C.-Notre Dame "Little Stalingrad" affair; the next week there were 300 on hand for Mississippi State-San Francisco and 500 for St. Mary's-Detroit.

PIGSKIN PICKINGS.

A few football records that various scribes think deserve a little attention-calling: When Canton (O.) McKinley high school finally busted Massillon's 53-game winning streak (35-0) it not only touched off the town's wildest celebration since the days of Jim Thorpe's old-time pro Bulldogs, but it was deemed worthy of a civic banquet for the team, which will be held tomorrow. . . . But it wasn't a novelty for the first-year coach, Herman Rearick. He piloted Dover (D.) high to victories over Massillon in 1932 and 1933.

HIGH (SCHOOL) JINKS.

To Sports Ed. Harvey L. Southward of the Lynn (Mass.) Item goes credit for expressing what a good many football scribes have thought. . . . Toward the end of a high school game between Lynn and Waltham, the visiting coach began sending in a stream of substitutes. Southward just shoved his hands into his pockets: "I'll be damned if I'm going to take the Waltham census," he remarked.

Local basketball coaches say that St. John's and N. Y. U. will be the toughies for teams visiting New York.

AKRON —(AP)— Otis Douglas, jr., Akron university's head football coach, has been commissioned a lieutenant junior grade in the navy.

Bucks Rally To Win Opener

Bob Shaw Paces Attack Against Ohio Wesleyan.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State university's basketeers had their first victory tucked away today—a 41-29 conquest over Ohio Wesleyan's Battling Bishops—but the Bucks looked forward to a tougher chore Saturday night when they meet the Great Lakes Naval Station.

Big Bob Shaw, Ohio's stalwart center, paced the Bucks against Wesleyan with 19 points as Ohio overcame a 19-18 half-time deficit to win.

Youngstown's center, Leo Mogus, and Forward Vince Barr of Ashland copped the scoring laurels last night as their teams crashed through to impressive victories, each star getting 23 points.

Youngstown, after holding a 33-15 halftime advantage over Kent State, won by 56 to 45, while Ashland defeated Findlay 54-41 in the Ohio conference.

Wittenberg's Lutherans also displayed power in a 56 to 13 romp over Dayton's Flyers in the opener for each club, Earl Fisher of the Springfielders setting the pace with 17 points.

Xavier, making its first start of the campaign, plastered Georgetown, Ky., with a 55 to 38 defeat.

Yankees Trim Two Weeks From Sked

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The New York Yankees have trimmed two weeks off their 1943 spring training season, cancelled all side railroad trips and are negotiating to eliminate several exhibition games in cooperation with a government order to curtail excessive travel by baseball clubs.

* * *

President Ed Barrow said that short trips from the Yankees' St. Petersburg, Fla., camp will be permitted but several scheduled long hauls will be eliminated as soon as necessary details can be ironed out.

Yankee players will report to their Florida camp on March 7.

Buckeye Swimmers Dominate Team

GOBLE PRAISES DRAFT BOARDS

Lauds Loyalty and Devotion, Says They'll Work as Usual.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Col. C. W. Goble, Ohio draft director, today praised the state's 330 local boards for their "measureless loyalty and devotion" and advised them that while they co-operate with the war manpower commission they will continue to work as in the past.

"The president has issued an executive order which transfers the selective service system to the chairman of the war manpower commission," Goble said. "I know that all of you who for so long and so unselfishly have been engaged in the administration of selective service will continue your vital work and give the chairman of the WMC that measureles loyalty and devotion which has characterized your efforts from the start."

Goble said WMC Chairman Paul V. McNutt had directed "that the system operate as heretofore."

"You have done a tremendous job. You have a tremendous job to do," Goble wrote the boards.

VOTE TO HOLD COUNTY FAIRS IN OHIO; RICHLAND UNDECIDED

While county and independent fair boards today had received a go-ahead sign to operate in 1943 from the executive committee of the Ohio Fair Managers' association, future of the Richland county fair will not be determined until the fair board meets Jan. 2 in annual session.

R. D. Hale, secretary of the board, said no plans have been made for a fair next year and the matter must be decided by the board when it meets to elect officers. There was no fair in Mansfield this year.

Hale added that the destruction of the grandstand at the fairground by fire Nov. 29 would be a handicap to the board in planning a program for the year since it is not likely that the stand can be rebuilt this year.

Pointing out that fairs conducted this year were financially successful and contributed to the war effort, the Ohio Fair Managers' committee yesterday in Columbus voted unanimously for a full fair program next summer.

Fifty fairs were conducted this year in the state, but 42 others were cancelled when Joseph Eastman, chief of the office of defense transportation, urged discontinuance to save tires.

Declining to streamline the 30th annual fair managers convention into a one-day meeting, the committee clung to the original Jan. 13-14 dates.

Former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, a founder of the association, submitted a resolution which declared the 1942 fairs had "sustained the war effort in such important matters as encouragement of increase farm and livestock production."

The war program, the resolution continued, was bolstered also through "the sale of hundreds of thousands of dollars in war bonds and stamps, the collection of huge amounts of salvage, the promotion of essential war activities in co-operation with the federal government, and the presentation of patriotic exhibits participated in by more than a quarter-million school children and thousands of loyal citizens."

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

M'NUTT STARTS MANPOWER TASK

Confers With Army, Navy on Basic Needs, Plans Labor Rationing.

specific reference to war production schedules and crop goals.

"The total population of the nation is now considered as a national pool from which the needs of the armed forces, industry, agriculture and essential civilian activities will be supplied."

In supplying those needs, McNutt said, draft boards now being integrated into the war manpower commission will give essential industries and agriculture equal rather than secondary consideration to the armed forces' demands.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, he added, will continue in his post of draft director.

With all voluntary enlistments halted selective service officials will give inductees a chance to express a preference as to which branch they wish to enter, although this will not necessarily mean, McNutt said, that their preference will be granted.

McNutt gave this forecast of future possibilities:

1. Rationing of scarce labor where available manpower is insufficient to meet all competing demands, the rationing to be handled through priorities "based on the urgency of various kinds of war production and services and linked to the production schedules and the flow of materials."

2. Adjustment of hours of work—upward in some industries but downward in others—and other steps to increase efficiency and to reduce absenteeism.

3. Transfer of hundreds of thousands of workers to more essential jobs, with guarantees of "suitable standards of wages and working condition" and payment of transportation costs in some cases.

4. Channeling of all employment through the U. S. Employment Service in labor shortage areas and inspection of plant labor arrangements to prevent hoarding of unneeded workers.

AP Says Mayor Asks Check Of City Books But Locke's Mum

sociated Press report from Columbus that the conference had been requested by him.

After first stating he didn't know Risser, the mayor corrected himself, saying: "Oh yes, I saw him crossing the street yesterday afternoon."

The Asociated Press reply to a News Journal query follows:

"Frank B. Thomas, chief of the cities' division of bureau of inspection, says Mayor Locke called him last week and asked him to come up for conference on possibility 'something might be wrong in some city departments.' Thomas unable to go but is sending Examiner C. E. Risser this week to confer with Locke and then report back on what should be done."

Risser had not reported back to Thomas up to noon today.

Locke's telephoned request, incidentally, followed announcements by Police Chief Thomas M. Bell that commercial bingo is passe except for bona fide members of chartered clubs, coupled with the suppression of cash-paying tip sheets and punch boards.

It was not learned today whether or not Locke's request was made before or after he had been served at 9:30 a. m. Friday with a notice of the Investment board meeting at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. Auditor Kelly reported that Locke offered arguments against the meeting at that time. Later he consulted City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner reparding the legality of a board meeting without a member of council present. Councilman C. N. Shultz having resigned last Tuesday night as a member of the investment board.

At 9:45 a. m. Saturday Locke sent an aid to Kelley asking that the meeting be postponed and at 10:05 a. m. Kelley received a copy of the mayor's letter setting up reasons why the session should go over.

The mayor refused to attend the board meeting, Wagner acting as chairman pro tem. After Kelley's report as fiscal officer was read City Treasurer Earl K. Troll made a motion for purchasing $100,000 worth of government securities. Wagner, Troll and Kelley all voting their approval.

The bonds have been purchased.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — More than 6,300 small businesses have closed their doors in Ohio due to material and labor shortages, records of the contributions department of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment compensation disclosed today.

The net loss of Ohio businesses was offset by the opening of 4,200 new concerns during the same period, reducing the loss to only 2,100.

The business mortality rate was highest in restaurants. During September, a representative month, 108 eating places suspended operations while only 70 new ones opened.

CHIEF'S ANGRY

Doesn't Care What Happens to Gasoline Hoarders.

KENTON — (U.P.) — Fire Chief Ralph Jones of Kenton doesn't care what happens to homes and garages where gasoline is stored illegally. As far as he's concerned they may burn to the ground.

Aroused by numerous reports of hoarding, Jones instructed his men not to fight gasoline-fed flames in buildings where "it is apparent the volatile liquid was stored illegally." The risk of being trapped was too great, he said.

1,500 WORKERS WALK OUT AT WAR FACTORY

Tie Up 6 Departments Making Steel Plates For Warships at Bethlehem Plant.

ARGUE 'WAGE-FREEZE'

Union Says Men Want Double Pay For Seventh Day, Ask Company Define Stand.

(By Associated Press)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—Six departments of the Bethlehem Steel company plant here which had been producing plates for warships were closed today by a walkout which the CIO United Steelworkers said was caused by a dispute over interpretation of President Roosevelt's wage-freezing order.

Eugene Maurice, local director of the union, said 1,500 men in the slab, plate, 40-inch, 34-inch and blooming mills and the open hearth department were out.

The company announced the mills and department were closed. Other departments of the huge Johnstown works were functioning normally. The strikers are only a fraction of the total number of employes.

The union's grievance committee called a meeting for this morning and a union representative who declined use of his name expressed belief an agreement would be reached.

Maurice said the men walked out because the company "declined to define its attitude on the Oct. 3 directive of President Roosevelt," which prohibited changes in pay unless authorized by the war labor board.

He said men working seven consecutive days demanded double pay for the seventh day and "decided not to work" until the company "defines its attitude" on this. The company claimed the men were receiving the double pay.

R. E. Hough, general manager of the steel plate plant, said the walkout, which began late yesterday, violated the union's con-

Railroad Employes Ask For $3-a-Day Pay Raise.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Representatives of 350,000 railroad operating employes announced today they would ask for a 30 per cent increase in wages, or a minimum raise of $3 a day, from the nation's carriers.

Alvaney Johnson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, serving as spokesman for the five unions which run and man the nation's freight and passenger trains, said increased wages were necessitated by added responsibilities and hazards placed upon employes, excessive hours, the manpower shortage, higher living costs and the inequality of railroad pay compared with that in other industries.

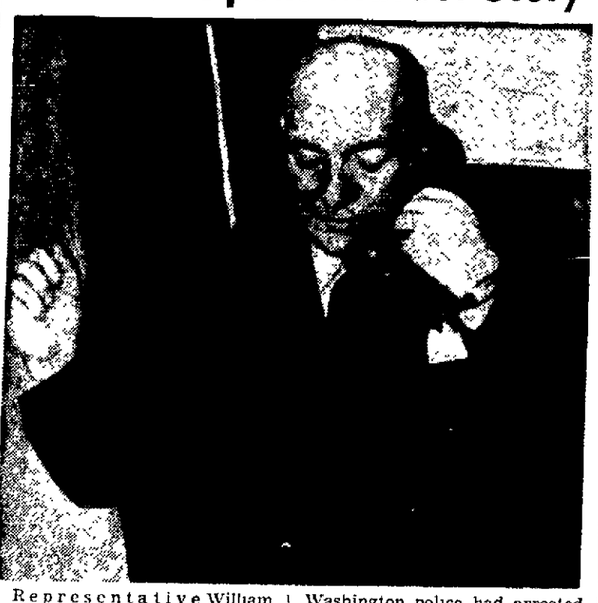
COAL LAND SOLD

Jefferson County Deal Reported To Involve $1,000,000.

STEUBENVILLE —(AP)— In a deal believed to have involved more than $1,000,000, some 4,500 acres of Jefferson county undeveloped coal land was transferred yestserday to the Ohio Power company by the M. J. Hanna company of Cleveland and its subsidiary, the United States Coal company.

The new owners plan to mine the fields to obtain coal for fueling a proposed new power plant near Brilliant, seven miles south of here.

His Fist Opens Murder Story



Representative William Schulte of Indiana displays the fist that delivered a haymaker to the jaw of Rudolph Nies of New York when he insisted on abusing a negro attendant in the barber shop which serves the house of representatives. After Washington police had arrested Nies, he stunned them with the assertion that he had killed his wife and two daughters. Investigation proved that his wife had been fiendishly stabbed to death in the bathroom of the Nies home at Islip Terrace, N. Y.

Congressman's 'Haymaker' Snares Man Wanted In Murder

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A New York state trooper and an investigator today were enroute to Washington to pickup Rudolph Nies, 36-year-old aviation machinist who was seized in connection with the stabslaying of his wife, after he was knocked out by Rep. William Schulte (D.), Ind., for causing trouble in the house barbershop.

State Trooper John Manopoli, and A Russell Tichards investigator for the Suffolk county, N. Y., district attorney's office, left last night for Washington where Nies was being held under guard in Gallinger hospital.

Rep. Schulte delivered a "haymaker" to Nies when the latter became abusive to an attendant in the Capitol Hill barbershop. Capitol police sent Nies to Gallinger hospital for observation and shortly afterward it was learned that he was being sought in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Emma Nies, 33, whose body was found in the bathroom of their home at Islip Terrace.

New York police said there were 30 to 40 knife wounds in Mrs. Nies' body. The crime was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Bertha Senft, and an autopsy indicated that Mrs. Nies had been murdered Sunday.

Nies was employed as a machinist at the Fairchild Aviation corporation in Jamaica, N. Y., where it was stated he had not

In years past the Community Fund office has acted as clearing house for the Give-a-Christmas program and was assisted last year in sponsoring the project by the Junior Association of Commerce and The Mansfield News-Journal. FBI WANTS TO KEEP BATES, HITS 'POLITICS'

Cleveland Bureau Frowns on Civil Service Mandate That Ex-Chief Must Return.

UP TO LOCAL BOARD

State Attorney Says Board Here Can Extend Leave For War's Duration.

"Most certainly we want him to remain in federal service," Lee Boardman, Cleveland area special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said today when asked if the FBI would oppose the Mansfield Civil Service commission's mandate to Meade K. Bates that he resume his duties as police chief here Jan. 15 or forfeit seniority rights accruing from 19 years of police service.

"The FBI," Boardman continued, "recognizes Bates as a highly valuable member of the bureau and since the FBI virtually is an integral part of the armed forces of the nation at war, feels that local politics should not interfere with his continuation in active service."

Coincidentally, Attorney Breen of the state civil service commission, today admitted in a telephone conversation with a News-Journal reporter that the local commission is not bound in its general conformity to the state board's regulations and can, at its own option, extend the Bates leave beyond a year in compliance with council's ordinance granting the leave for the duration of the national emergency.

Breen explained that customarily a person returns to his job after a year's leave for a "reasonable period" and renews his leave application. He said the state board ruling is that a year's leave is the limit except for service in the armed forces and that he does not consider the FBI in that category.

On Dec. 1, the city Civil Service commission formulated a notice to Bates that his leave could not be continued past Jan. 14. Bates, in the city yesterday, said he would ask the commission to further clarify the situation, indicating that to date his understanding has been that his only choice will be to come back in.

Boardman, declining to discuss the possible political aspects of the case, made the inference that Washington authorities had been asked to intercede with the view of retaining Bates in FBI service.

U. S. TO COLLECT BILLION IN AREA

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Uncle Sam's war chest will receive ample provender next year when $1,000,000,000 will be collected from 22 counties in northeastern Ohio in income taxes.

Revenue Collector Frank F Gentsch estimates that twice as many people will file tax returns next year and the returns should reach the billion dollar figure He said that average payment probably will be three times as much as this year.

Last year 900,000 persons in the district filed returns while an estimated 1,800,000 were expected in 1943.

METERS HIT

Parking Receipts Slump as Owners Garage Cars.

Getting into training last month for the gas rationing era, Mansfield motorists restricted their shopping trips by auto considerably, the November parking meter returns show.

According to the report to City Auditor Paul L. Kelley by Lloyd Kochenderfer, meter inspector, and the Richland Trust company, auditing agent, last month's receipts slumped to $3,067.07, as compared to $3,-258.63 in October, $3,326.35 in September and $3,556 in August.

November collections included $1.579 72 in pennies, $1.475.65 in nickels and $11.70 in dimes.

Total for the year ending Nov. 20 is $42,265.67.

Bond Clean-Up Shows More Pledges, 100 Per Cent Firms

Two revisions—both upward—were made today in recapitulating the figures of Mansfield's tremendous response Monday to the "Remember Pearl Harbor—Buy Bonds" campaign.

A final check revealed that the total number of persons who either bought bonds Monday or signified that they were participating in a payroll deduction bond purchase plan would be in excess of 9,000, rather than 7,000.

A clean-up by a special J.A.C. committee of bond-selling agencies and industries brought in 2,000 more pledges yesterday afternoon. Again, a crew of 14 Senior high school girls typed the additional names alphabetically for use in the Dec. 13 edition of The News-Journal, which goes to all Mansfield men in the armed services.

The other change was in the number of firms going 100 per cent for the payroll deduction plan. Three more were added, bringing the total from 102 to 105.

However, the total amount of purchases stood the same—at $457,050 in outright purchases, plus an estimated $41,000 from payroll deductions for the month from new participants in the plan. This, with an estimated $130,000 in bond allocations in December from plants and business houses previously signed up, puts the county well over its $587,000 quota for the month of December.

To enable The News-Journal to obtain the latest correct address of Mansfield men in the services, for mailing the Dec. 13 edition, a coupon for use by parents and relatives appears on Page 5 of today's paper, together with instructions for using it.

"Things are going to pieces, but there is no prospect of an immediate revolution," he said.

STATE REFUSES SPECIAL EXAM

AP Says Request From Mayor Which He 'Knows Nothing About,' Denied.

Although Mayor W. J. Locke said he didn't know anything about it, there'll be no special examination of any city department's books by the state auditor's office.

Yesterday, Locke said he didn't know anything about a state examiner being here Monday although Frank B. Thomas, chief of the cities' division of the inspection bureau, told the Associated Press in Columbus that Locke last week telephoned a request for a conference, indicating "there may be something wrong in some city departments"

Today Thomas informed The News-Journal through the Associated Press that he had told Examiner C. F. Risser to advise Mayor Locke that no special examination would be made in advance of the regular examination some time after Jan. 31. Risser was in the City Hall Monday afternoon Locke didn't know about this today, either, he said.

Meanwhile conjecture continues that the mayor's request was an effort to forestall purchase of

Allied Planes Challenge Axis Over Tunisia

Morocco Reports Growing Airpower As Bombs Rain on Tunis, Bizerte, Aid Ground Fighting; Italian City Heavily Damaged.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Allied infantry and motorized units have launched two counter-attacks in the Tebourba area and succeeded in making slight headway, a Reuters news agency dispatch said today, quoting a New York radio broadcast.

(By Associated Press)

Britain's huge four-motored bombers delivered another tempest of fire and high explosives on the Italian royal arsenal city of Turin before dawn today, while across the Mediterranean the rising might of Allied air squadrons challenged the Axis for control of the skies over North Africa.

A broadcast from American-occupied Morocco said Allied heavy artillery—previously pictured as mounted on strategic heights—was pounding Axis forces in the Tebourba sector in Tunisia and Allied planes again raided Tunis and Bizerte.

Every day, the broadcast said, "fresh (Allied) formations of aircraft are put into operation."

Italy's high command acknowledged that the RAF "carried out a violent raid last night over Turin, causing very heavy damage especially in the central area." Its communique indicated that casualties had been severe.

Authoritative London quarters said the RAF's far-ranging Stirlings, Halifaxes, Lancasters and Wellingtons, flying 1,500 miles round trip across the Alps, blasted Turin in "a concentrated attack" and declared:

"The results are believed to be good."

It was the fifth time in less than a month that Turin has felt the impact of "prolonged, scientific and shattering attack" promised by Prime Minister Churchill in a campaign to knock Italy out of the war.

Civilian populations at Turin, Genoa, Naples and other Italian cities have already started a hasty exodus to the countryside under orders by Premier Mussolini.

Advices reaching London from Tunisia said the hour for a new Allied drive on the Axis-held strongholds of Bizerte and Tunis might be near, following a strong and successful counter-attack executed Monday by British and American troops in the Tebourba sector, 20 miles west of Tunis.

American tanks were officially credited with supplying the punch which drove the Germans from their newly-won positions south of Tebourba, and an Allied headquarters spokesman also praised the "extraordinarily fine support from

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Germany's armies, trying desperately to hold the siege of Stalingrad they laid down 106 days ago, are pressing mail planes and training ships into service in an attempt to bolster their threatened forces with reinforcements, the Soviet army newspaper Red Star asserted today.

The Red air force has downed as many as 60 Junkers 52's in three days, Red Star said. These are the regular German troop and supply carrying ships which the invader has been using to bring reserves from as far as Germany itself, Red Star claimed.

Planes, tanks and motorized infantry were fed toward the positions in which German counter-attacks in the last five days have been successful in slowing the Soviet drives

While the Red army's advance generally has slowed on individual sectors, particularly southwest of Stalingrad, Soviet authorities asserted their gains continued.

Red Star, the army's newspaper, said that shock troops stormed German front line trenches in one sector southwest of Stalingrad, killing several hundred of the enemy.

The afternoon communique, which listed more than 1,300 of the enemy killed in the night's fighting, told how Russian artillery pounded back an attempt by German mechanized infantry to flank some of their units in the sector southwest of Stalingrad.

The Russian offensive thus was geared to slow, grinding progress against mounting resistance.

Russian dispatches pictured it as a war of doggedly keeping at the attempt of turning back Ger-

CHECKED: Japs Lose Destroyer In New Attempt to Reach Buna

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The navy announced today that American dive bombers and torpedo planes attacked a Japanese force of ten cruisers and destroyers off Guadalcanal, sinking one enemy warship and leaving three others in flames.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—Allied bombers broke up a new attempt by the Japanese navy to reinforce troops in the Buna-Gona area of New Guinea yesterday, setting one of the six relief destroyers afire with two direct hits and forcing the remaining five to flee northward, an Allied communique said today.

On the New Guinea short, Allied forces which drove a new hole in the Japanese lines a few days ago and reached the beach fought off strong counter-attacks from Buna village and Buna mission. At least 40 Japanese were reported killed in the fighting.

Allied troops advanced slightly in the fighting around the Buna air drome and the communique reported that Allied planes were continuing their attacks on Japanese positions.

The communique from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said that Japanese planes "have violated the laws of war by repeated attacks upon Allied hospital installations, killing doctors, medical personnel and patients."

On Nov. 27, the communique said, Japanese planes bombed an Australian field ambulance in the Soputa area and an American regimental dressing station, killing 29 persons and wounding 31. On Dec. 2 an American field hos-

Western Farmers Make Money By Shooting Rabbits

FORT COLLINS, Colo.—(U P)—Long-eared, high jumping jackrabbits almost as typical of Colorado as its mountains are biting the dust regularly these days.

Farmer sharpshooters of the area who have always considered the lanky rabbits a pest have been spurred on by the recent high market price being paid for the rabbits.

Specialists in the line are paying from 10 to 20 cents each for each rabbit selling the furs for manufacture of women's coats and the meat to persons who operate fox farms as food for the foxes.

Experts at the Colorado State college say one man armed only with a 22 rifle can shoot as many as 10 or 15 rabbits in the evening after work and realize a nice profit.

Moreover the experts estimate that by destroying the rabbits the plainsmen conserved enough feed in fields, pastures and ranges to winter a herd of 7,407 cattle. It is estimated that 27 jackrabbits eat as much as a cow.

RAF SHATTERS TURIN IN NEW, POWERFUL RAID

Growing Allied Airpower In North Africa Offers Challenge to Axis.

the air by RAF and American air forces."

The spokesman said the whole Axis campaign to reinforce its garrisons in Tunisia "appeared to have slowed up as a result of air attacks and activities of the royal navy."

Allied headquarters said further reports on the heavy fighting last Sunday disclosed that 20 Axis tanks were destroyed that one day. Axis gains in the Tebourba sector were wiped out by a strong Allied attack Monday.

"Activity in the forward area yesterday was limited to patrolling," an Allied communique said.

British headquarters in Libya reported that Allied fighters shot down seven German Messerschmitts yesterday in an air battle over Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's marble arch landing ground near El Agheila, where Rommel has taken a new stand against the British Eighth army.

Other Allied planes shot down a Junkers 88 off the Libyan coast and attacked the docks and a seaplane base at Bizerte, scoring hits on an Axis destroyer, a fuel dump and a large building.

The British command reported new patrol activity "in forward areas" of the Libyan desert as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery tested out Nazi defenses in the narrow El Agheila corridor between salt marshes and the sea.

On the Soviet front, dispatches to Red Star said the Germans were pressing even mail planes and training ships into service to bolster their imperiled siege armies before Stalingrad, indicating a shortage of transport aircraft.

In addition, Red Star said Russian fliers had shot down as many as 60 Junkers 52's—regular Nazi troop and supply carrying planes—in three days.

U. S. Planes Prove Mettle in Tunisia

ALLIED FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—(AP)—American-built fighter planes and bombers, the subject of much argument since the attack on Pearl Harbor brought the United States into the war, are proving themselves today in Tunisia.

Ranged against the best the German air force has been able to offer, including Messerschmitt-109G's during the week from Nov. 28 to Dec. 4, American-built P-38's, Flying Fortresses, B-16's, B-25's and A-20's flown by American pilots shot down 42 Axis planes. Only 17 American planes were lost in that period.

The P-38, with its twin engines, high speed and multiple cannon and machineguns—the principal target of doubters—has proven the "wonder plane" of the African campaign.

Germans Claim 13 Allied Ships Sunk

BERLIN (From German broadcasts)—(AP)—The German high command reported today that U-boats had sunk 13 ships totalling 108,000 tons in the Atlantic, including the 18,700-ton British liner Ceramic which, it said, was carrying troops to North Africa and sank instantly in heavy seas.

"In view of the prevailing storm and heavy seas," the communique said, "large loss of life must be reckoned with."

(No such sinkings have been confirmed by any Allied sources.)

The communique said that three other ships carrying war supplies were sunk from the same convoy and that two more and a destroyer-escort were hit.

Strafed, Bombed He's Still Dodger Fan

AT THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Nov. 23.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Corporal Nick Stoma, who is ranking man in the crew of the United States tank buster "Miss Ruth," was strafed yesterday and divebombed today but he still wishes to be known primarily as a Dodger baseball fan.

"Yes sir, back at Ebbets Field with my shirt off, yelling come on you Dodgers! That's the life for me," the Brooklyn corporal said as he stood by his war-machine on a rolling field of battle at the approaches to Tunis.

Stoma and other crewmen described how a divebomber attacked them in a small town while "we were between two buildings. The bomber demolished both of them. It was a miracle we got out, but a brick wall saved us."

A crew member was driver Elmer Parkins, Tiffin, O.

Describes 'Suicide' Advance on Morocco

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—(AP)—The "keyhole" to the second A. E. F.'s daring invasion of Africa was a narrow river in French Morocco—and a "suicide" unit of navy volunteers was the key that opened the door, a 20-year-old sailor disclosed upon his return to the United States.

"It was a voluntary job, but to tell the truth, it was a suicide squad," Kenneth E. Probst of Williamsport wrote friends here from New England.

"Our objective was to go up and take an airport. It was 12 miles up the river. We never expected to come out alive, for once we started up the river we couldn't turn back.

"Boy, you don't know what a feeling you get when things begin to pop. It took about three minutes for me to get in the groove. I had a 20-millimeter gun to fire, plus my .45 I had on me. In simple langauge it was hell.

"If we didn't get up that river, you would not have your second front today. From the time we started we were under constant firing from batteries on the shore. I tell you I am a mighty lucky fellow, thank God."

Probst enlisted in August.

Will U. S. Seize Store, Washington Wonders

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Raising the question of whether the government would use wartime powers to seize a peacetime industry, the War Labor board today was confronted with a new refusal by Montgomery Ward and company to bow to WLB demands that it sign a "union security" contract with a CIO union.

While angered WLB officials were expected to carry the case to the White House, there was avid speculation in labor circles in Washington over whether the government would take over the big Chicago mail order house and attempt to operate it.

Precedent has been set for army and navy confiscation of plants engaged in war production but there has been no previous case in WLB history where a peacetime business has been seized.

It was possible, informed congressional sources said, that the future of the WLB itself was at stake. Some congressmen, it was pointed out, have been demanding a congressional investigation of the board.

Officials of the cities of New York and Newark, N. J., also were protesting against the board's use of its powers. In addition, it was pointed out that the old national defense mediation board fell on the same issue—union security.

Steel Workers Get 13 Per Cent More Pay

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Workers in the steel industry are receiving 13 per cent more in direct wages per ton of products turned out than a year ago, but production per workers has fallen off because of the employment of inexperienced help, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported today.

The industry's wage earners were paid an average of $16.71 for every ton of pig iron and steel products shipped to consumers during September, compared with $14.72 in September last year, the institute said. Selling prices remained unchanged in this period.

TALK UNITY

Church Groups of U. S., Canada Consider Forming Council.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A far-reaching step toward some form of Christian unity between American and Canadian churches—the Creation of a North American Council of Churches of Christ—was considered today by seven Protestant interdenominational groups.

The council would embrace more than a score of leading denominations in the two countries, said leaders of the groups which included: the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, the Home Missions Council of North America, the International Council of Religious Education, the Missionary Education Movement of the United States and Canada, the United Council of Church Women and the United Stewardship Council.

year has been asked to serve as clearing house," Mrs. Williams said.

Lists of worthy families are now available at the Salvation Army citadel and in addition to the adopition plan used by organizations, individual Christmas baskets will also be filled from the food and money donations sent to the Army for that purpose.

The sum of $93.51 left in the treasury last year after 150 baskets were filled will be turned over the Army for use this year, Mrs. Williams said. A number of clubs have already signified their intention of collecting home canned food to alleviate any possible shortage in grocers' stocks.

No rationed foods such as sugar and coffee will go into the baskets and chicken will be used instead of meat. All baskets will be ready for distribution Dec. 24, and persons able to call for them at the citadel will be asked to do so.

The Salvation Army has received requests for baskets from 300 families so far and although the relief load in the city is lower than it has been for some time, Mrs. Williams pointed out, there are still a large number of unemployables in the city.

HOARDER AGREES TO RETURN GAS

Says He'll Dispose of 1,900 Gallons of Fuel.

EUCLID, O.—(U.P.)—Mayor Kenneth J. Sims said today that A. L. Carson, president of the Snapout Forms company, had promised to remove 1,960 gallons of gasoline found concealed in tanks on his estate in a Cleveland suburb.

Carson appeared before Mayor Sims last night to answer a warrant charging him with violating the Euclid building code and was released on personal bond for hearing Dec. 28.

Carson told the mayor he had made "a mistake" and was anxious to dispose of the big supply of gasoline. He said he would return the gasoline to the dealer from whom he purchased it last September.

pital in the Buna area was bombed, but no damage was caused, it was reported.

The same hospital unit was bombed twice on Dec. 7 by dive bombers and seven persons were killed. In each instance, the communique said, the hospital units were conspicuously marked.

Report More Japs Reach Aleutians

LONDON—(INS)—Additional Japanese army units have recently arrived in the Aleutian islands to "greatly reinforce" the garrisons on the seized bases, the German radio asserted today, according to Reuter's news agency.

(Secretary of the Navy Knox was asked whether the Japanese were going to be left in the strategic islands west of Alaska and replied: "Not the live ones.")

Japs Face Hunger, Death in Two Areas

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Virtually isolated Japanese garrisons in both the Aleutians and the southern Solomons today face starvation, or annihilation at the hands of American ground forces and planes.

With American naval and military might growing rapidly while Japan's merchant marine and warship strength is being whittled down almost daily, the feeling is rising in Washington, that the Japanese will be unable to supply or reinforce their forward bases.

Although there have been no reports of activity in the Aleutians for nearly 10 days, U. S. army bombers and fighter planes are known to be carrying out bombing and strafing attacks whenever weather permits.

The Japs have paid heavily for their occupation of the American islands of Attu and Kiska since they invaded the undefended outposts last June. Their losses to date have been more than 51 planes and 47 ships sunk and damaged.

Japs Arrest More Americans in China

CHUNGKING—(AP)—Large scale arrests of Americans in Japanese-occupied North China following the seizure of Allied nationals in the International Settlement at Shanghai confirms that the Japanese have adopted a severe policy toward Anglo-Saxons in occupied territory, trustworthy private reports reaching west China indicated today.

All citizens of Allied countries were arrested in Tsingtao and the majority of the British and Americans taken were interned near that city, it was reported.

All Americans and Britons living in Chefoo were said to have been transferred to the Temple Hills near Tsingtao where they faced serious problems of feeding and lodging themselves.

Foreign quarters here said that Japanese repatriated from the United States had impaired Japanese morale with their stories of America's war production, and that this was influencing the Japanese government against exchanging and repatriating Allied nationals for their own people.

meeting indicated that upon their return to their home communities, they would enlist the support of parents in a drive to get modification of the transit order. In line with this suggestion, Robinson said today he planned to ask bus drivers of Richland county to outline in detail, and show by map, exactly the routes they travel, together with the ages of the children they pick up at each stop, as a preliminary to further study. They will be, asked further, Robinson said, to justify the report any "extra" driving. These reports should be filed before February 1.

The school men maintained that such "extreme" measures as those proposed would result in the impairment of the school system, poor health, serious accidents among pupils and a disintegration of public morale. They argued that the emergency was not great enough at this time to warrant such limitations during the present school year.

mans trying to counter-attack and then pushing on to destroy their hedgehog outposts, their fortified points and their garrisons.

It was war in one sector of bayonet killings, numbered in the Soviet communique early today at 700, and in another sector of swift patrol action with a group making its way behind the Nazi lines southwest of Stalingrad, blowing up a rail line, killing 20 Germans and dashing back to its position.

The communique pictured the most intensive fighting in salients west of Rzhev, where it said the Red army unsheathed its bayonets and stormed a dominating height, taking 61 prisoners as well as leaving 700 dead.

In that area, too, the Russians said they repulsed German tank and infantry attacks, killing 400 Germans and overrunning four strong-points.

The midnight bulletin described the capture of garrisons and villages near Veliki Luki, 90 miles from the Latvian border, and reported seven planes shot down.

Report Gestapo Chief Arrested By Army

LONDON—(INS)—Heinrich Himmler, feared Nazi Gestapo chief, was arrested by high German army authorities recently and held in custody for five days, according to a dispatch today to the London Daily Mirror from the German frontier.

The dispatch said the arrest was "symbolic" and probably was intended as a warning to Himmler "not to overshoot the mark" in his repressive activities.

According to persons familiar with developments within Germany, the dispatch added, the Reichswehr took this means of serving notice on Himmler and other Nazi officials that the army intends to be the rallying point for the German people rather than the Nazi-organized SS corps.

STATE REFUSES SPECIAL EXAM

AP Says Request From Mayor Which He 'Knows Nothing About,' Denied.

$100,000 worth of war bonds by the Investment board.

Yesterday Locke's only reply was "that's interesting, I didn't know about it," when advised by The News-Journal that the bureau had revealed his request for a conference on the ground that "something might be wrong in some of the city departments."

Risser visited the City Hall Monday afternoon, Locke admitting only "I saw him going across the street" after having indicated he did not know Risser, who had completed a routine audit of the city's departments a few months ago.

In the opinion of City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, the mayor may have been exercising strategy in getting an examiner to visit him on the pretext of departmental irregularities and then casually tipping his hand in opposition to the bond purchase.

When notified by Kelley last Friday that the Investment board would meet at 10:30 a. m. Saturday to consider the purchase, the mayor immediately voiced objections, suggesting a postponement until council names a member to the board, replacing C. B. Shultz, resigned.

In a letter to Kelley, secretary of the board, a few minutes before Saturday's meeting, the mayor cited the city's "financial stringency" although the fiscal officer's (Kelley) report showed a cash balance then of more than $323,000.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—Three officers and three enlisted men were killed in the crash of a medium army bomber into the bay 50 yards offshore three miles east of MacDill field yesterday as more than 100 military and civilians looked on.

The dead were identified by the field public relations office as: Second Lieutenants John E. Williams, pilot, of Los Angeles; Clarence O. Parsons of Electra, Tex., and Norman J. reported for work in several days.

The Nies had "kept to themselves," neighbors told police, since the death of their 2-year-old child, Bertha Louise, a year ago. The district attorney's office of Suffolk county said that Nies had suffered a nervous breakdown following the death of his child and was under a physician's care until his disappearance from home a few days ago.

Nies was incoherent when he was taken to the hospital. Officials administered a sedative to quiet him and a police guard was placed around his bed.

Dr. Isaac Sulverman, of the Gallinger psychopathic ward said Nies muttered constantly, and did not know he was in Washington.

Rep. Schulte said he had no idea with whom he was quarreling and that he accosted Nies to defend Tom Briggs, a negro attendant in the barbershop.

"He was berating the negro attendant at the barbership," Schulte said. "I admonished him, telling him he shouldn't do that.

"He finally took a punch at me, so I slapped him down. I tried to pick him up and he kicked me in the face.

"Then I let him have it, with a haymaker. He took a lot of trimming before he went down.

"I held him until the police came. Then I told them to hold him for assault. I felt there was something wrong with him."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1942.

After all, the shortage of doctors may not be so noticeable if the apple supply holds out.

Banned for the duration: "Let's have another cup of coffee"—but you may still have "another piece of pie."

This is the time of year, you may recall, when, except for the war, there'd be much talk about whether or not to trade in the old car.

Accidents Cut Manpower, Help Axis

THE INTENTIONAL killing involved in war probably accounts for the greater shock that comes with announcement of such fatalities, as compared to the so-called "common" accidents that cause many thousands of deaths each year.

It is rather startling to note, however, that casualties to United States armed forces from Pearl Harbor to November 15, excluding the African campaign, have been 5,694 dead, 3,435 wounded, and 39,827 missing or prisoners, while casualties to American workers during the same period have been 44,500 dead and 3,800,000 wounded.

The National Safety Council offers this comparison in emphasizing the point that industrial accidents help the Axis by draining manpower that is vital to victory.

The total American accident toll during the same period is given as 89,000 killed and 8,800,000 injured, among the victims being thousands of skilled workers and key men in the nation's war program, who cannot be replaced.

"Casualties on the battlefront are a necessary sacrifice to perpetuate our freedom," says Ned H. Dearborn, executive vice president of the council. "Casualties on the homefront, through accidents, are preventable and hinder the efforts of our fighting men by sabotaging the production of the weapons and materials of war.

"Those who fall in battle die for a cause. Those struck down by accidents die in vain. It is the duty of every patriotic American to conserve manpower for victory."

Too Soon To Forget Boston Tragedy

WHILE Boston is attempting to place the blame for its night club fire in which the death toll now stands at 495, the customary ten-day period of nationwide concern seems to have passed and public thought has moved along to other things without much of anything having been done to guard against similar tragedies in the future.

In Ohio, for instance, the state building code strongly emphasizes the importance of having the doors of assembly halls and other public places OPEN OUTWARD, and to have stairways ample for quick exit in the event of fire or panic.

BUT there is no requirement under the law that old buildings converted to purposes of public assemblage have the changes made that would conform to such specifications, and DOORS THAT OPEN INWARD ARE AS GREAT A HAZARD IN OLD BUILDINGS AS IN NEW if a panic-stricken crowd tries to get out—as was the case at Boston's Cocoanut Grove night club firetrap.

If there is no law to compel reasonable safety measures in old buildings used for public purposes there should at least be some way in which licenses could be withheld or revoked in instances where safeguards against fire do not conform to modern requirements.

After a tragedy occurs, as in the Boston instance, it is too late to discuss what might have been done to prevent it.

(Note: After the above was written it was disclosed that, through action of the Youngstown fire chief, 17 night clubs in that city have been closed because of fire hazards—inward opening doors, inflammable decorations, defective wiring and unmarked, blocked or insufficient exits.)

'Rush' In Akron Also Pictured

WHILE Mansfield people were crowding into banks, post-office and several other sales places Monday to buy War Savings Bonds, there was another kind of rush going on in Akron, according to a Page 1 picture in the Akron Beacon Journal.

There, as here, large crowds were attracted—but NOT to buy War Savings Bonds!

The Akron crowd, as pictured, was in one of that city's state-operated liquor stores and the caption was, "Hundreds Rush for Share of Shrinking Liquor Supply."

All a matter of opinion, of course, but the rush of Mansfielders to buy War Savings Bonds on Pearl Harbor day seems better fitted to the need of winning the war in the quickest possible time.

Movie Stars as Bond Sellers

E. B. WHITE, author of "One Man's Meat," comments, in December Harper's, on the American practice of actress appearances to sell bonds.

"This particular brand of rally is a rather odd American phenomenon—the spectacle of a people with homes and future at stake, their own lives threatened and the lives of their sons hanging by a thread, having to goad themselves to meet the challenge by indulging in a fit of actor worship and the veneration of the Hollywood gods."

Mr. White says every race has its own national forms and ecstasies, its own way of doing business and getting results. The Japanese have their emperor, an idol, the Germans their State, identified with the fuehrer. Americans have their Abe Lincoln, their Concord Bridge, their Bill of Rights, which he calls somewhat intellectual appurtenances.

"For pure idolatry and the necessary hysteria which must accompany the separation of the individual from his money they turn to Dorothy Lamour, or Beauty-at-a-Distance."

Before he went to the rally, Mr. White poked fun at the idea. But once in attendance at the "goofy American occasion" he found himself very glad to be there. Americans may be funny, but given their screen stars, they do buy their bonds for a high cause.

Hereafter, when reference is made to "bloc heads," it should be carefully noted whether the "bloc" is spelled with or without a final "k."

Hitler's promise that he "will never run out on the German people," encourages belief that he may have some such course in mind.

An ideal football coach is defined as "one who gives the team all the credit when it wins and takes all the blame when it loses."

It is predicted in London that suitings will be made from peanuts—which somehow sounds very much like a shell game.

THE MANPOWER SHORTAGE

Baffled By Censorship of Cables

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Too much censorship is bad wartime policy. At any rate, that's the idea that the Washington newspaper corps is trying to rub into the government. It isn't that our Yankee press is muzzled over-tightly. It publishes about whatever it pleases, if able to get it.

Officialdom may refrain from telling our local scribes all that they would like to know, but if it leaks, there is no method of preventing them from broadcasting it.

The foreign correspondents are chaps who feel the pinch.

Many is the good yarn they get that the censor's office won't allow the cable companies to transmit for them, to their various home countries.

Being right here, in domestic journalism's midst, they naturally holler to their native colleagues, and the latter aren't sympathetic. Their theory is that there are certain classes of information that ought to be kept hushed up, but that there are other kinds which simply are favorable advertising.

Furthermore, it's contended that excessive secrecy makes folk suspicious. They are everlastingly afraid that BAD news is being suppressed from them.

The other day, too, military headquarters fed out the suggestion that reporters should not guess, in advance, relative to desirabilities of prospective operations. The critics' answer is that the news boys obviously think faster that the professional fighters do, and bother them, by making them appear to be backward—perhaps, likewise, giving useful hints to the enemy.

Keeping News Home.

Well, here at home it is difficult to stop them, but it can be done pretty effectively in the foreign field, by putting the nipper on the trans-oceanic wires.

The result seems to be that our democratic allies are uncertain how popularly we are solidly with them. They can sense that they are not being constantly fully posted and it worries them. Of course this is especially true of Britain, also of Latin America, and maybe, to some extent, of China, although the press there doesn't amount to much. Needless to remark, the Axis powers won't circulate our stuff in their areas, but it is liable to be just what we require in our friends' territories.

With Chief Censor Bryon Price no fault is found. News distribution is his passion.

Byron gets his orders from overhead, however.

They reach him from Lowell Mellett, Harry Hopkins and Archibald MacLeish.

These birds are censorial and THEN some.

It's curious as to Lowell Mellett. Harry the Hop and Arch McLeish are in the somewhat dictatorial classification, but Lowell always was a liberal until very recent years. How he happened to degenerate into absolutism is a puzzle.

Elmer Davis doesn't rate as a CENSOR. His job is to give OUT information—to give it out correctly, but to give it OUT.

Davis Not to Blame.

Davis has done it as far as the censorship would let him.

Tied by the leg to the government, as Elmer is, he has been considerably crippled, but he has done his best.

Britain has done better anti-censorially, than this country has. Winston Churchill has kept the cork out completely. When his government has been parliamentarily roasted, he has turned it loose "ad lib." We've kept it hushed, for foreign publication, on congressional howls.

The result is, that the British know definitely where their public opinion is "at."

They are not so sure about ours.

They get our newspapers, it's true, but belatedly.

Their members of parliament pan their administration like fury, and we get the text of it. Congress pans OUR administration more or less, but it isn't cabled to the other side. Hadn't they ought to be told what is being said on OUR Capitol Hill?

Bungling is what our censorship is accused of.

It ought to be run by practical newspapermen.

WE print what's called for, but we don't TRANSMIT it, apparently. It isn't Bryon Price who ties it up. It's Hellett, Harry the Hop, Arch MacLeish & Co.

Cool Rooms To Avert Colds.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DURING the first World war we sang a song, "Keep the Home Fires Burning." The slogan this time is "Keep the Home Fires Burning—Low." You are going to have to. Fuel oil will be curtailed on the Atlantic Seaboard and in 13 Midwestern states representing a population of 96,000,000 people. However, only about 13,000,000 oil burners exist in this area.

The advice to convert to coal and open wood grate fires is not very practical because most of the home owners that I have talked to who are burning fuel oil can't find the grates for coal burning and some of them contributed these grates to the scrap drive before they knew what was going to happen to them. In the case of the open wood grate fire, the supply of wood is also restricted on account of the lack of laborers to gather and saw it.

My first reaction to all of this is that I am willing to bet that there will be fewer colds in the United States than there have been for many long years. I have had a beef for a long time about the heat and dryness of homes, office buildings, stores, places for public gatherings in this country. This year I hope I will be spared the necessity of making any such complaints.

We used to put down 70 degrees F. as the ideal inside temperature in the winter, but I am convinced that the average indoor temperature of North America for the last 20 to 30 years in the winter has been closer to 80 degrees F. than to 70 degrees, and interiors have been correspondingly dry and lacking in humidity.

Lower Temperature Better.

Ideal temperature, irrespective of humidity and air motion, does not exist and no one can say exactly what a safe minimum temperature is without these two factors. Most hygienists believe that for the average private home, apartment house, school, department store, office building and so on, a temperature of 60 degrees to 68 degrees F.—the majority opinion setting down 65 degrees F.—as ideal.

Comfort, so far as indoor temperature is concerned, is more a matter of skin than of the nose, throat and lungs, although the respiratory system suffers more from bad ventilation than does the skin. It is quite possible for anyone to be his own heat engineer and wear clothing which will make him comfortable even if the temperature of his office building or home should have to be reduced to 50 degrees or 55 degrees F. "Wear a sweater and help win the war" is another slogan that has been suggested.

Infants and Old People.

Of course, adjustments will have to be made by the rationing boards for the people who are using a given dwelling. Infants and older people should have consideration on this basis.

It is unnecessary to heat bedrooms at all unless they are used by children under four years of age or elderly people who are sensitive to cold. People vary in this respect: some are old at 50 and some are young at 70.

Hospitals and sanitariums will need to be kept at higher temperatures than dwelling places, offices and stores. The majority opinion of heat engineers is that hospitals and sanitariums should have a temperature of 70 degrees F. except in the operating rooms where the temperature should be 80 degrees F.

How To Preserve a College.

The problem of saving colleges from the casualty list is subordinate to more pressing war problems, but nevertheless important. Unlike business enterprise, which in theory is self-regenerating under favorable conditions, the machinery of advanced education could be destroyed permanently by war's dislocations.

Attempts to find a solution properly are proceeding along the line of finding a military function for the colleges to perform in the emergency. Most of the large institutions already are geared to the war program; the chief threat is to the small colleges, specializing in liberal education.

It is clear at the outset, or seems clear, that whatever is done in their behalf should become a permanent safeguard; that it should be an attempt to fit them not only for the present but for the future with the means of becoming useful in the national program of military security.—Canton Repository.

Interpreting the War News

High Morale Pleases Montgomery, Believes Victory In Africa Sure

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN LIBYA—As we draw closer to the moment when the great battle will be joined at El Agheila it is increasingly apparent that Allied fortunes rest in a major degree upon the personality and military skill of one man, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the British Eighth army.

In the minds of thousands of young fighting men who swarm the desert, the name of Montgomery has become synonomous with success.

Because Montgomery does hold so much of our destiny in his own hands I made a special effort to find him and I finally ran him to earth after a long, hard chase of several days back and forth across the fighting zone.

Montgomery was in his little house on wheels when I tramped up to his front and only door.

A kindly faced, grey-haired man shook hands cordially and waved me to a chair. He smiled when I told him I had come to look him over and see what sort of a chap he was and we fell to chatting.

"Is everything well with us as we come up for the battle, sir?" I asked him.

The general nodded and then he said: "Things go well. We shall not fail at El Agheila, though here may be a hard battle. The Germans will fight."

"I told my men at the beginning of the campaign that our job was to drive the Boche out of Africa," he said. "We shall do that. There is no alternative. There is no question of anything else."

The general's eyes twinkled and he laughed when I told him that some of the men were betting the combined Allied forces would have Christmas dinner in Tripoli.

It was evident that the report pleased him.

He didn't answer me directly about the Yuletide dinner, but did give a far better reply.

"Morale is the thing," he declared, and his voice vibrated. "Morale is the thing.

"You can do anything with an army if its morale is high. Your troops must be in that frame of mind where they want to fight, where they're anxious to meet the enemy in battle.

"Morale depends on success. Give the troops success and their morale is high."

"The morale of our men is high. They want to fight.

"This means much, for warfare is hard in this desert where men may go without bathing for six months because of the scarcity of water. There are many trials. One of these is the lonely darkness of the desert under the silent expanse of night far from home and loved ones. But the morale of the men is high."

I asked the general how long he thought the war would last.

"I believe it is likely to be long," he replied.

"The only way to win is to defeat the Germans on the battlefield.

"The greatest mistake we can make is to fail to recognize this and to underestimate the enemy's strength.

"The German is a good soldier and will fight, though I believe it is true that once you get him down he cracks up. But we must smash him and do it on the battlefield with armies."

"A battle," observed the general at another point in the conversation, "is a contest between two men—the commanders — to see who can outwit the other."

He turned to a life-size photo of the head and shoulders of a striking looking soldier.

"That's Rommel," he remarked and added with a smile, "I captured that."

"What do you think of him?" I asked.

"He's a grand soldier," replied Montgomery, "but we shall beat him."

"You're confident —your own morale is high," I said.

He nodded and again looked me squarely in the face. Montgomery believes in himself. No doubt about that.

"I've been surprised at the tremendous interest this campaign has created among the people of the United States," he said, "I am getting messages from all over the world to wish us luck in the campaign. They come from all sorts of folk, even including many ladies.

"I was particularly touched by one letter from a Sunday school leader in Atlantic City. He wrote to say that the boys of his classes were praying that I might have strength in the coming battle."

"And don't these messages help you?" I asked. "Don't they strengthen your morale?"

He nodded and there was moisture in his eyes.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Here (and elsewhere) are rumblings that may break forth any minute into one of the major manpower problems of the war—the growing shortage of physicians and dentists to care for civilians.

Topflight dentists recently met in Washington. The whole business was off the record, but the principal speaker at the closing session, a civilian topnotcher in the dental ranks, fairly yanked the molars out of the military men for their raids on the profession.

According to figures made public here recently, about one-third of all the able-bodied physicians in the country (exclusive of non-practicing physicians and most of those over 65) are now serving the armed forces.

If there is any state left that has the ratio of one doctor to 1,000 persons, it hasn't been reported here and in states hardest hit by enlistments and the "voluntary draft" of medical men, the ratio is rapidly approaching one doctor to each 3,000 persons.

* * *

COMPARE this with apportionment in the military forces of one medical man to approximately 135 men. That doesn't mean, of course, that every physician has only 135 men to look after. With specialists, surgeons, etc., devoting themselves to special treatments, every army or navy doctor's brood is much larger than that. Nor is there any quarrel with giving the fighting men the ultimate in medical care.

The point is that somehow the health of the home front must be kept up, too, and that the 85,000 (more or less) physicians left in civilian practice are just about absolute minimum, provided they were equally distributed in all states, cities and defense centers, which they aren't.

* * *

IT'S certainly borrowing trouble to contemplate what might happen if we had a recurrence of (or something similar to) the "flu" epidemic of World War I, but contemplating just such a possibility with the prospect of losing another 15,000 medicos to the armed services is what has health officials between a fit and a faddle.

One partial remedy suggested is the compulsory allocation of medical manpower.

But behind the scenes here is that old bugaboo of organized medicine; the fear that any such national regulation will lead to "socialized medicine."

The solution isn't anywhere near in sight, but there isn't a crowded community in the country (Washington included and close to the top) where members of any family in which there is a seriously ill child, a pregnant wife, an outbreak of colds, or a week-end toothache, fail to realize that this is one of America's critical wartime problems.

The Sikhs Had a Name for It, How 'Khaki' Got That Name

KHAKI comes into its own as hundreds of thousands of soldiers fight in the deserts and on the dry plateaus of north Africa.

What is khaki?

It's a color, says a National Geographic Society bulletin. The name comes from the Hindustani and Persian word khak, meaning earth, or dust.

British soldiers in India during the wars with the Sikhs, 1845-49, felt too conspicuous for comfort in their campaign whites. They needed camouflage. By dipping their uniforms in muddy water they changed them from white to—the Sikhs had a word for it—khaki.

Thereafter khaki promptly became standard for East Indian campaigning. The name attached itself to the closely twilled cotton cloth of the uniforms and stuck without regard for the shade. Since 1900, however, it has gradually regained its correct meaning and has been applied to drab shades of grey, brown and green, regardless of the material.

The various nations employing khaki shades have their individual standards for the color. The United States Quartermaster General, now buying scores of millions of yards of khaki cloth, specifies a khaki dye that results from blending many dye shades, including brilliant orange and blue. Britain's wool industry achieves khaki color in wool not by dying the cloth but by blending together threads of blue, yellow, brown, red, and mauve in making the cloth. The gay-colored threads in the fabric add up to—khaki.

In the South African (Boer) war, 1899-1902, the word khaki was applied to the British administration responsible for outfitting its army in khaki. There were khaki bonds to finance the war, khaki loans, khaki elections, and khaki policies.

A Farmer's Diary

The Morning After

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WE SLEPT late after working more than half the night making applebutter. The three younger boys, who had spent their usual number of hours abed, were up first. The house was warm, for I had banked the fire before retiring.

Dreamily, I heard them exclaim about the snow. I raised upon one elbow and looked outdoors. Winter had come. Every harsh line was softened and covered with fluffy white. Snow was still falling so fast that the nearer hills were veiled.

The children raced into their outer garments and then outside, yelling with delight. I heard them go to the barn for the sled, and presently the two littlest were back, panting and disgusted. The smallest had filled his pockets with soft snow, to show me—the one who is five helped him disgorge it, melting upon the rug. Both boys looked very downcast and very damp. I opened one eye wider.

"What's wrong?" I grunted.

"Our sled won't run. The runners stick. It won't even slide down hill. I tried, and got both shoes full."

"Where are all the rest?"

"Sister's asleep. Big Brother said not to bother him or he'd cave us in—he was up all night."

"Where's the one next to you?"

"Aw—he put snow down our necks! And when we fought hard, he said to keep our mouths shut and he'd get us some cider. But what good would it do us, then? Anyway, he's got your hose and is sucking all the rest of the cider out of the barrel, I guess. . . . We made tracks all over the yard, and our feet are wet . . . the snow is as pretty as if the fairies had piled it. There's a spot all around the fire that's warm and wet, and a pair of red birds are scratching. Those big—boxes of applebutter look like frosted cakes. How soon are you going to get up?"

"Right away," I answered wearily.

THE KITCHEN table was loaded with jars of brown-black spread, to be wiped off and put away. The cidery smell clung to everything, and a big basket of cores and parings stood in a corner, awaiting my manly arm to lift and empty it. My manly arm was sore and tired. I ached all over.

I wasn't hungry for applebutter, either—not then—but when, Sunday morning, my wife made muffins for breakfast, the spread had cooled, and so had my aversion to it. For a whole year, or more, we shall have pleasure and profit from that day's work, for we think no other staple food is so wholesome and inexpensive, so piquant and full of fruity goodness. We do not tire of it.

WAR REDUCES CANDY SUPPLY

Columbus Dealers Limit Customers to 60 Per Cent of Former Purchases.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—If the Japs and the Nazis still haven't made you mad, consider this:

Because of the war this gum-chewing, sweets-loving nation is faced with a shortage of chewing gum and candy.

Columbus wholesalers report that a labor shortage combined with the cutting of supplies of chocolate and available sugar has resulted in a shrinkage of their stocks far below the current demand.

"We're trying," said one large dealer, "to give our customers 60 per cent of their former supply. Sometimes we succeed; sometimes not."

He added that manufacturers of sweets still were entitled to 80 per cent of their former sugar quotas, but that the labor shortage, occasioned by demands of higher paying war industries, was proving an insurmountable obstacle.

Stores report that generally they can supply a pack of gum or a candy bar, but that the former variety of choice is a thing of the past and that customers are glad to take what is on hand.

DINA CASHMAN + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1942.)

SYNOPSIS

Brought up in an atmosphere of constant poverty, migrating from place to place whenever her "Pop" got a better chance somewhere else, Dina Cashman at 19 has attained a beauty that is in strange contrast to her surroundings. At present the Cashmans and their seven children are living in one of the dilapidated shanties of Railway Flats in the Santa Clara valley. Dina had been forced to quit high school during a migrating period and is working to help support the family. She turns her weekly pay envelope over to her mother and in return is granted a certain measure of freedom for social activities. Evenings Dina and her friends enjoy what gaiety the town's main street has to offer. Cotta's, a large combination dance hall, restaurant, is the center of activity and it is here Dina's crowd is wont to gather. Everyone takes it for granted that she will marry the neighborhood's nicest boy, Tom O'Connor, Tom works in a lumber camp near San Francisco and has returned for a few days to ask Dina to marry him. As she listens to him, Dina muses, "Isn't Tom O'Connor good." Tom had always been in love with her. But this night sitting together at Cotta's, Dina knew she could never marry Tom. Only one fearful suspicion was significant to Dina at this time. Tom misinterpreting her silence for encouragement asks her to marry him. "We could have one of those little cottages up at the mills," he went on.

CHAPTER V

"Hello, my dear!" Vere had returned almost inaudibly. "I hate so to mess with grating cheese!" he had added aloud. "Now here's turtle; that's nice."

"We have the cheese ready grated," old Meyer, hovering about, had suggested.

"We have the cheese already grated in bottles," Diana had repeated seriously.

"Then suppose I take two onion soups, two mushrooms, and two bottles of cheese and sort of slumgullion them all together," Vere had decided brilliantly.

"That ought to be good," Dina had agreed. With him beside her she had returned to her desk, had rung up his money.

"How soon are you free?" he has asked.

She had glanced at the clock.

"Ten—seven minutes."

"I'll wait. I'll wait in my car. Right across the street."

That had been all. Dina had concluded her share of the day's busines in a daze. The store would stay open for another hour, but young Ben Meyer always took over at 5.30, checking up accounts, straightening out the books.

Dina merely operated the cash register, handed change from the drawer, reached under the counter for bags, and tossed the empty market baskets back into the pen.

If there happened to be a line of waiting customers with their filled baskets when half-past five arrived, Dina always stayed to serve them; on this particular afternoon there had been such a line and she could make no exception.

So that it had been 15 minutes after the promised time when she had stepped out into the swiftly descending dusk, half hoping and all fearing, and had looked across the road to see if Vere's patience had not been exhausted.

The lemon bars of dazzling light that had crossed the west at the end of the wild wet day had disappeared now. Twilight and winter had held the shabby street. Shops had all been closed, except the drug store and the candy store and Mullins and Dave's up at the corner.

But the dark-blue rakish roadster with the canvas top and the white-and-red wheels had been waiting, and Vere had sprung out to escort Dina around to the seat beside him before returning to his own. They had sat close together, laughing at first and then not laughing. Six o'clock had rung from Saint Augustine's—half-past six, and Dina had said dreamily that she must go home. Her mother might, or might not, have started dinner preparations; her father would certainly be angry if she were much later.

Then Vere would drive her home. But the girl had objected, that it was only two long blocks across the track and beyond the dumps, and the street outside the house was a mud bath. Then good night.

He had framed her face in his young, hard, big hands and kissed her. Not her first kiss from a man—boys had kissed her now and then—but the first one that had been important, the one never to be forgotten.

After that Vere had come to the store every two or three days. She had gone to dinner with him at a pleasant French restaurant, a family place far too respectable and quiet to be of interest to Dina's usual group but that was infinitely thrilling when she was in Vere's company.

Vere had told her his history in odd erratic bursts and snatches. He was the only son of divorced parents; his father was in New York with a second wife; his mother was Mrs. Cutter Holland of Burlingame.

His mother had remarried since the divorce but after another marital failure had resumed the name by which she had long been known. Vere had had two years at the state university and then had gone on to Yale to prepare for the law school; he had taken a leave of absence for the fall quarter and was now being coached to re-enter after Christmas. He had wanted to be an aviator, but his eyes hadn't been quite up to the mark.

Quite evidently her talk had fascinated him; she had known it. She had been quite aware that his dancing eyes never left her face when she was talking, that any details she could give him of Dooley or Donny or the crazy finances of the Cashman family were deliciously entertaining to him in themselves and were all the more entertaining when retailed in her own way, with her eyes and color and laughter to give them point.

But whatever he derived from her was as nothing to what his talk meant to her. It was talk of a world whose existence she knew only from the movies but with which she had never dreamed of making contact.

Doors opened into Bagdad itself when Vere casually mentioned polo, mentioned trips to Europe, mentioned what the butler said, or spoke of his mother's chauffeur. Vere went to dances and danced with the debutantes; Dina could find his name in the paper among the lists the next day. He did not care much for the prospect of these dances; he explained that they never really got underway until midnight, and he got terribly sleepy, but after you once got there it was kind of fun.

They had known each other about three weeks when Vere had asked her to come up to Paradise Valley on a skiing trip. Dina had naturally objected that she couldn't ski. Oh, that was easy, nobody else could either; all she had to do was fall around in the snow. But she hadn't any of the right clothes!

Easy too. All she needed was a sweater and a skirt; she had a coat, of course. Yes, she had this coat—the coat with the mangy fur collar. Well, that would do fine. He'd manage the sweater. He'd borrow one of his sister's; Mimi was away in Honolulu, and her room must be full of stuff.

And he had actually brought to the store for her inspection a day or two later a suitcase containing two pleated plaid skirts and two woolen sweaters. The clothing had decided Dina, but she had hesitated for a few more questions.

"Someone — someone married goes along?"

"Oh, sure. Half of them are married! We all have dinner together at the inn and break up early. Some of the mothers play bridge, but I don't. Our crowd gets up early to climb up Bald Hill, we get a two good hours in before breakfast. Breakfast about nine, waffles and thick bacon and biscuits—lord, it's good! And then we all go out until about three, and come in for lunch, and loaf and bathe and start for home."

"It sounds such fun!"

"It's the greatest fun in the world."

"But who would I be with, Vere? I mean—my father'd skin me if anything was queer about it. I mean—suppose I was one of the other girls—who'd I be with?"

"You mean what woman?"

"Not—not to be up there with a lot of boys," the girl had submitted doubtfully.

"Well, you see, here's how it is. Mrs. Thomas is going and Mrs. Waite, and I don't know who else. Freddy Lippincott says—for instance, 'Mrs. Waite, this is Miss Watson from Baltimore, who's staying with Mother; which room will she have?' Mrs Waite says, 'Howdy-do, Barbara, you are in with Margot.' Still, if any funny business goes on at night," Vere had added, "those married girls don't interfere."

"Don't?" Her laugh had held a scandalized note.

"No. It's none of their business. They're playing bridge all night, anyway, and asleep all morning. But they're there," Vere had finished with an illuminating grin that had made Dina laugh again. "That's all the mothers want to know!"

"And does it?" she had asked seriously. "I mean—they don't do anything wrong?"

"Well, I guess some of the fellers and girls sort of have that in mind when they go," the boy had answered after a moment's thought.

"But the thing is, if—anyway here's what my mother's always said about Mimi," he interrupted himself to explain, as one suddenly enlightened, "if you can trust a girl, she's safe. And if you can't, she isn't. And where she goes, or what you let her do or don't let her do, doesn't much matter."

"And when would we go?"

"This week I can't get off until Saturday afternoon. But that's all right; we get up there for dinner."

Rolled in luxurious rugs, she had sat beside Vere on the long drive, and to them it had been far too short. Then had come the bewildering joyful experience of taking possession, with one Martha Wilson, of a room in a beautiful little brown cabin—the most luxurious room and the most comfortable cabin Dina had ever seen, even if they were high up in the snowy Sierras.

Soft lights, soft Indian rugs, a fireplace in which logs were burning, a bathroom whose towels were downy and warm and the size of small sheets, perfumed soaps, fat white pillows, hot water; nothing imaginable was lacking.

It was ecstasy, after the long cold, cramping drive, to stretch and relax, to waste a lazy, sleepy half-hour about the fire before separating for baths, to rejoin each other in time for the 8 o'clock dinner, fresh and rested and completely in love with the adventure.

Vere was of course next to her at dinner; they were late in finding their places at a great round table at which several of the pretty young women, Dina was relieved to discover, were indeed married and so might well be counted as chaperons.

She was casually introduced, no questions were asked, and although an evident state of intimacy existed between most of the other members of the party, no special attempt was made to draw her into it or evince the slightest responsibility for her.

But as the atmosphere was one of great freedom Dina was not made uneasy, and when the long meal, interspersed by dances accompanied by the radio, was over she was quite willing to end the day at quarter to ten.

"Where are you?" asked a handsome woman of perhaps 30, who had been mentioned as "Lollie Reynolds."

"We're in the cottage at the end of the row," Martha Wilson answered as she lighted a cigaret. Everything seemed quite regular to Dina; she had never been here before and she did not know many of the persons about her, but everyone seemed to be taking the situation comfortably and for granted.

She had on a blue lace dress borrowed from Frances Tack. It was not new but, being lace, it fell into soft lines and was conspicuous neither for smartness nor shabbiness.

And with it she wore a white woolly coat which Vere had brought along today; the coat was not new either; it was comfortably inconspicuous among a score of woolly coats, and Dina felt it deliciously warm and protective.

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

And So We Said "Yes, Mrs. Sowash, We Will Print Your Message to the Boys"

Here's the story: We printed recently a notice to industries, business firms, lodges and other organizations that on Sunday, December 13th a special edition of the Mansfield News-Journal would be sent to Mansfield men in the service. This issue would carry the names of Mansfielders who will have bought bonds on "Remember Pearl Harbor Day" or who are listed under payroll deductions. Mrs. H. R. Sowash of 155 South Foster, noticed this, and here was her conversation: "I'm not a lodge, but I'm the mother and mother-in-law of two fine boys in the service, and I want to send them a message." "Well, Mrs. Sowash, what would you say?" "I'd say this," she replied, "We are rooting for you boys and know you'll come thru with flying colors. The Howard Sowash Family."

It seemed to us if it was a good idea for Mrs. Sowash it would be the same for others.

SEND A PERSONAL MESSAGE TO YOUR LOVED ONES SUNDAY

MEN RUN FAR AHEAD OF WOMEN IN WHOPPERS FOR LIARS' CONTEST

BURLINGTON Wis — (UP) — Women may be matching strides with men in war production but they can't hold a candle to the 1942 male output in the annual contest of the Burlington Liars club to choose a world's champion liar

Take it from club president Otis C Hulett it's still a man's world here at this palladium of whoppers

"Women may be tops in some phases of the current picture," he conceded, "but they haven't stepped up production for us" His appraisal was based on a preliminary survey of thousands of entries already in hand to be judged for the enthronement of New Year day a new champion to succeed R C Cross of Wausau, Wis.

Hulett was a little disappointed too that none of the WAACs and WAVES whose function is to release men to fight from military and civilian administrative posts had volunteered an entry in the Liars contest He still was hopeful though that they would rise to their opportunity to pinch hit for the scores of service men now preoccupied with fighting in foreign fields

The club's response from Europe formerly thriving has dwindled to practically nothing since the United States entered the war

England is about the only country over there we can get mail from he explained I'd say off hand that we have perhaps a half-dozen entries from overseas

To demonstrate the caliber of feminine competition Hulett cited a couple of entries at hand for the 1942 judging

Mrs L H Laabs Weatherford Tex told how a rare snowstorm in her home state created an impromptu blackout

"The flakes were so big" she said that as each one fell it blacked out a street light which normally makes it as bright as day in our bedroom"

Dorothy Mae Probach Genoa Wis took a rap at the Japanese with a play on symbolism in her entry to show the durability of the white race

She said that the Burlington Liars club responded to a Red Cross roll call by contributing its collection of yarns to knit socks for the soldiers.

"Now there were yarns from the white brown and yellow peoples she said The toes of the socks were knit in yellow and the rest was finished off in either brown or white The yellow toes were out in a hurry but the whites had so much backbone that it took several months before they even got shiny"

The current champion won with a tall tale about the never-never land of the Unadilla where a bottle of hair tonic poured into a stream made the fish so anxious to get a shave that Cross and his companions caught more than they could eat by setting up a barber pole on the bank with a copy of the Police Gazette All they had to do was stand beside the barber pole and yell Next!

In the first seven months of 1942 300 000 more tons of steel plates were produced in the U S than in all of 1941
